

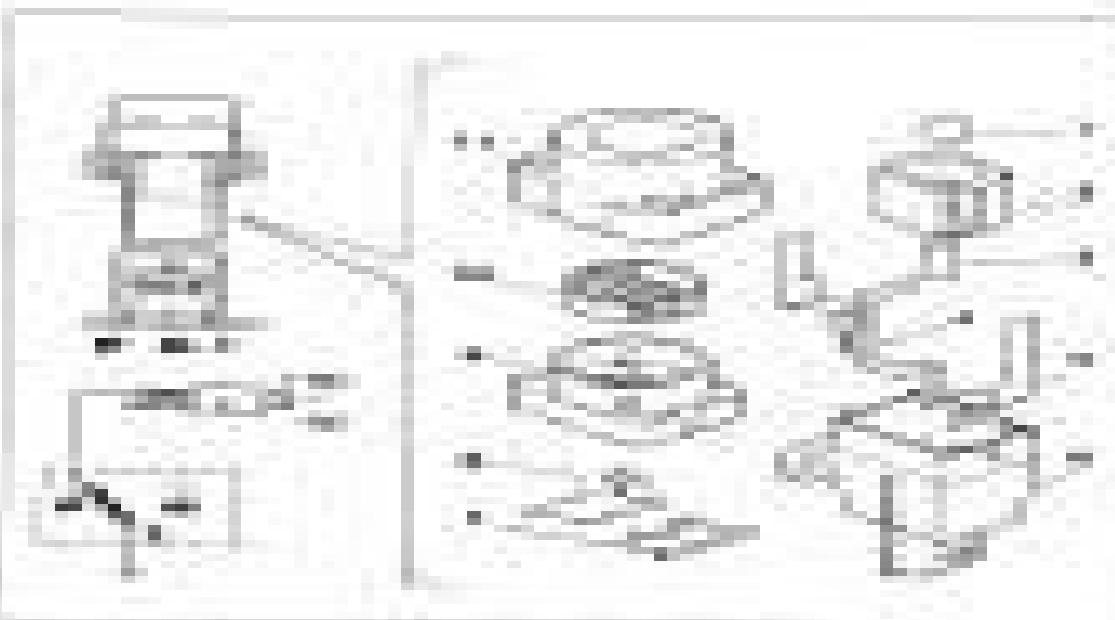

Diagram illustrating the greenhouse effect. Light rays enter the greenhouse and are reflected back inside, warming the interior.

The greenhouse effect is a natural process that warms the Earth's surface. When the Sun's rays hit the Earth, they are absorbed by the ground and water. The ground and water then warm up and release the energy as heat. This heat is absorbed by the greenhouse gases in the atmosphere, which trap the heat and keep the Earth warm.

The greenhouse effect is essential for life on Earth. Without it, the Earth would be too cold to support life. However, human activities have increased the amount of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere, which is causing the Earth to warm up too quickly. This is known as global warming.

Global warming is a real and urgent problem. It is causing the Earth's temperature to rise, which is leading to a variety of problems, including melting glaciers, rising sea levels, and more frequent extreme weather events. We need to take action now to reduce the amount of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere and slow down global warming.
