Field Notes From A Catastrophe A Frontline Report On Climate Change:

Field Notes from a Catastrophe Elizabeth Kolbert, 2007-01-01 Explores the issue of global warming from every angle incorporating interviews with researchers and environmentalists explaining the science and the studies and presenting the personal tales of those who are being affected most

The Magnetic North Sara Wheeler, 2011-02-01 More than a decade ago Sara Wheeler traveled to Antarctica to understand a continent nearly lost to myth and lore In the widely acclaimed bestselling Terra Incognita she chronicled her quest to find a hidden history buried in Antarctica's extreme surroundings Now Wheeler journeys to the opposite pole to create a definitive picture of life on the fringes In The Magnetic North she takes full measure of the Arctic at once the most pristine place on earth and the locus of global warming Inspired by the spiraling shape of a reindeer horn bangle she travels counterclockwise around the North Pole through the territories belonging to Russia the United States Canada Denmark Norway and Finland marking the transformations of what once seemed an unchangeable landscape As she witnesses the mounting pollution concentrated at the pole Wheeler reckons with the illness of the whole organism of the earth Smashing through the Arctic Ocean with the crew of a Russian icebreaker shadowing the endless Trans Alaska Pipeline with a tough Idaho born outdoorswoman herding reindeer with the Lapps and visiting the haunting deceptively peaceful lands of the Gulag Wheeler brings the Arctic's many contradictions to life The Magnetic North is an urgent beautiful book rich in dramatic description and vivid reporting It is a singular deeply personal portrait of a region growing daily in global importance

Provisional Cities Renata Tyszczyk, 2017-11-02 This book considers the provisional nature of cities in relation to the Anthropocene the proposed geological epoch of human induced changes to the Earth system It charts an environmental history of curfews admonitions and alarms about dwelling on Earth Provisional cities are explored as exemplary sites for thinking about living in this unsettled time Each chapter focuses on cities settlements or proxy urbanisations including past disaster zones remote outposts in the present and future urban fossils The book explores the dynamic changing and contradictory relationship between architecture and the global environmental crisis and looks at how to reposition architectural and urban practice in relation to wider intellectual environmental political and cultural shifts The book argues that these rounder and richer accounts can better equip humanity to think through questions of vulnerability responsibility and opportunity that are presented by immense processes of planetary change These are cautionary tales for the Anthropocene Central to this project is the proposition that living with uncertainty requires that architecture is reframed as a provisional practice This book would be beneficial to students and academics working in architecture geography planning and environmental humanities as well as professionals working to shape the future of cities

The Routledge Handbook of Global Development Kearnin Sims, Nicola Banks, Susan Engel, Paul Hodge, Jonathan Makuwira, Naohiro Nakamura, Jonathan Rigg, Albert Salamanca, Pichamon Yeophantong, 2022-01-31 This Handbook provides a comprehensive analysis of some of the world's most pressing global development challenges including

how they may be better understood and addressed through innovative practices and approaches to learning and teaching. Featuring 61 contributions from leading and emerging academics and practitioners, this multidisciplinary volume is organized into five thematic parts exploring changes in global development, financing, ideologies, norms, and partnerships; interrelationships between development, natural environments, and inequality; shifts in critical development challenges and new possibilities for positive change. Collectively, the handbook demonstrates that global development challenges are becoming increasingly complex and multi-faceted and are to be found in the Global North as much as the South. It draws attention to structural inequality and disadvantage alongside possibilities for positive change. The Handbook will serve as a valuable resource for students and scholars across multiple disciplines including Development Studies, Anthropology, Geography, Global Studies, Indigenous and Postcolonial Studies, Political Science, and Urban Studies. The Introduction of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives (CC BY-NC-ND) 4.0 license.

International Encyclopedia of Human Geography, 2009-07-16. The International Encyclopedia of Human Geography provides an authoritative and comprehensive source of information on the discipline of human geography and its constituent and related subject areas. The encyclopedia includes over 1,000 detailed entries on philosophy and theory, key concepts, methods, and practices; biographies of notable geographers; and geographical thought and praxis in different parts of the world. This groundbreaking project covers every field of human geography and the discipline's relationships to other disciplines and is global in scope, involving an international set of contributors. Given its broad inclusive scope and unique online accessibility, it is anticipated that the International Encyclopedia of Human Geography will become the major reference work for the discipline over the coming decades. The Encyclopedia will be available in both limited edition print and online via ScienceDirect, featuring extensive browsing, searching, and internal cross-referencing between articles in the work, plus dynamic linking to journal articles and abstract databases, making navigation flexible and easy. For more information, pricing options, and availability, visit http://info.sciencedirect.com/content/books/ref_works. Available online on ScienceDirect and in limited edition print format. Broad interdisciplinary coverage across human geography: Philosophy, Methods, People, Social, Cultural, Political, Economic, Development, Health, Cartography, Urban, Historical, Regional. Comprehensive and unique: the first of its kind in human geography.

Seeing Like a City, Ash Amin, Nigel Thrift, 2017-05-23. Seeing like a city means recognizing that cities are living things made up of a tangle of networks built up from the agency of countless actors. Cities must not be considered as expressions of larger paradigms or sites of human effort and organization alone. Within their density, size, and sprawl, can be found a world of symbols, bodies, buildings, technologies, and infrastructures. It is the machine-like combination, interaction, and confrontation of these different elements that make a city. Such a view locates urban outcomes and influences in the character of these networks, which together power urban life, allocating resources, shaping social opportunities, maintaining order and simply enabling life More than the silent stage on which other powers perform such networks represent the essence of the city They also form an important political project a politics of small interventions with large effects The increasing evidence for an Anthropocene bears out the way in which humanity has stamped its footprint on the planet by constructing urban forms that act as systems for directing life in ways that create both immense power and immense constraint

Looking to the Future Derek Hodson, 2011-10-25 In advocating an action oriented and issues based curriculum this book takes the position that a major but shamefully neglected goal of science and technology education is to equip students with the knowledge skills attitudes and values to confront the complex and often ill defined socioscientific issues they encounter in daily life as citizens in an increasingly technology dominated world carefully critically confidently and responsibly In outlining proposals for addressing socioscientific issues through a curriculum organized in terms of four increasingly sophisticated levels of consideration the author adopts a highly critical and politicized stance towards the norms and values that underpin both scientific and technological development and contemporary scientific engineering and medical practice criticizes mainstream STS and STSE education for adopting a superficial politically naive and hence educationally ineffective approach to consideration of socioscientific issues takes the view that environmental problems are social problems occasioned by the values that underpin the ways in which we choose to live and urges teachers to encourage students to reach their own views through debate and argument about where they stand on major socioscientific issues including the moral ethical issues they often raise More controversially the author argues that if students are to become responsible and politically active citizens the curriculum needs to provide opportunities for them to experience and learn from sociopolitical action The relative merits of direct and indirect action are addressed notions of learning about action learning through action and learning from action are developed and a case is made for compiling a user friendly database reflecting on both successful and less successful action oriented curriculum initiatives Finally the book considers some of the important teacher education issues raised by this radically new approach to teaching and learning science and technology The book is intended primarily for teachers and student teachers of science technology and environmental education graduate students and researchers in education teacher educators curriculum developers and those responsible for educational policy The author is Emeritus Professor of Science Education at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education University of Toronto Adjunct Professor of Science Education at the University of Auckland and Visiting Professor of Science Education at the University of Hong Kong His research interests include considerations in the history philosophy and sociology of science and their implications for science and technology education STSE education and the politicization of both students and teachers science curriculum history multicultural and antiracist education and teacher education via action research

The Dawn of Agriculture and the Earliest States in Genesis 1-11 Natan Levy, 2023-11-29 This book invites a close textual encounter with the first 11 chapters of Genesis as an intimate drama of marginalised peoples wrestling with the rise of the world's first grain states in the Mesopotamian alluvium The initial 11 chapters of Genesis are often considered discordant and fragmentary despite being a story of beginnings within the context of the Bible Readers discover how these formative chapters cohere as a cross generational account of peoples grappling with the hegemonic spread of domesticated grain production and the concomitant rise of the pristine states of Mesopotamia The book reveals how key episodes from the Genesis narrative reflect major societal revolutions of the Neolithic period in Mesopotamia through a three fold hermeneutical method literary analysis of the Bible and contemporary cuneiform texts modern scholarship from archaeological anthropological ecological and historical sources and relevant exegesis from the Second Temple and rabbinical era These three strands entwine to recount a generally sequential story of the earliest archaic states as narrated by non elites at the margins of these emerging state spaces The Dawn of Agriculture and the Earliest States in Genesis 1 11 provides a fascinating reading of the first 11 chapters of Genesis appealing to students and scholars of the Hebrew Bible and the Near East as well as those working on ecological injustice from a religious vantage point The Cambridge History of Travel Writing Nandini Das,Tim Youngs,2019-01-24 Bringing together original contributions from scholars across the world this volume traces the history of travel writing from antiquity to the Internet age It examines travel texts of several national or linguistic traditions introducing readers to the global contexts of the genre From wilderness to the urban from Nigeria to the polar regions from mountains to rivers and the desert this book explores some of the key places and physical features represented in travel writing Chapters also consider the employment in travel writing of the diary the letter visual images maps and poetry as well as the relationship of travel writing to fiction science translation and tourism Gender based and ecocritical approaches are among those surveyed Together the thirty seven chapters here underline the richness and complexity of this genre

Imperfect Oracle Theodore L. Brown,2015-08-26 Science and its offshoot technology enter into the very fabric of our society in so many ways that we cannot imagine life without them We are surrounded by crises and debates over climate change stem cell research AIDS evolutionary theory and intelligent design the use of DNA in solving crimes and many other issues Society is virtually forced to follow our natural tendency which is to give great weight to the opinions of scientific experts How is it that these experts have come to acquire such authority and just how far does their authority reach Does specialized knowledge entitle scientists to moral authority as well How does scientific authority actually function in our society and what are the countervailing social forces including those deriving from law politics and religion with which it has to contend Theodore Brown seeks to answer such questions in this magisterial work of synthesis about the role of science in society In Part I he elucidates the concept of authority and its relation to autonomy and then traces the historical growth of scientific authority and its place in contemporary American society In Part II he analyzes how scientific authority plays out in relation to other social domains such as law religion government and the public sphere A Path of Love Sonelle Euskera,2022-11-13 My dreams showed me a book I was to write with just three chapter headings A dream it is wise to pay attention to as I am shown future events or given important messages During early morning connecting time I had declared aloud my heartfelt intention to partner with Life also that whichever beings were waiting to work through me I was ready The dreams followed soon after So I offer a chronicle of my journey through this life particularly from strangled expression to flow of words and ideas from mistrust a victim disconnected from my Heart alive now to overflowing Love Trust compassion acknowledgement of others Likewise deeply one with Earth Water Air Sun Light Fire Cosmos deeply rooted in the ground of my embodied Being I stay open in undefended Ease of expression Creative inspiration Magical synchrony I am awed by geometrical symmetry yet immense Volcanic power explosiveness too the wondrous Mystery of Life s ever changing Expression Who Are We What Are We as Life propels us beyond imagined limits giving rise to such Questions as Who s creating the Reality I am currently experiencing Can I wholly believe in my potential total Limitlessness Thanks be to Life for every step of this journey

Climate Change and Society John Urry, 2011-06-20 This book explores the significance of human behaviour to understanding the causes and impacts of changing climates and to assessing varied ways of responding to such changes So far the discipline that has represented and modelled such human behaviour is economics By contrast Climate Change and Society tries to place the social at the heart of both the analysis of climates and of the assessment of alternative futures It demonstrates the importance of social practices organised into systems In the fateful twentieth century various interlocking high carbon systems were established This sedimented high carbon social practices engendering huge population growth increasing greenhouse gas emissions and the potentially declining availability of oil that made this world go round Especially important in stabilising this pattern was the carbon military industrial complex around the world The book goes on to examine how in this new century it is systems that have to change to move from growing high carbon systems to those that are low carbon Many suggestions are made as to how to innovate such low carbon systems It is shown that such a transition has to happen fast so as to create positive feedbacks of each low carbon system upon each other Various scenarios are elaborated of differing futures for the middle of this century futures that all contain significant costs for the scale extent and richness of social life Climate Change and Society thus attempts to replace economics with sociology as the dominant discipline in climate change analysis Sociology has spent much time examining the nature of modern societies of modernity but mostly failed to analyse the carbon resource base of such societies This book seeks to remedy that failing It should appeal to teachers and students in sociology economics environmental studies geography planning politics and science studies as well as to the public concerned with the long term future of carbon and society

The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism Greg Garrard, 2014 The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism provides a broad survey of the longstanding relationship between literature and the environment The moment for such an offering is opportune in many respects multiple environmental crises are increasingly inescapable at both transnational and local levels the role of the humanities in addition to technology and politics is increasingly recognized as central for exploring and finding solutions and the subject of ecocriticism has reached a kind of critical mass both within its Anglo American heartlands and beyond From its origins in the study of American Nature Writing and British Romanticism ecocriticism has developed along numerous theoretical historical cultural and geographical axes the most contemporary and exciting of which will be represented in the Handbook The contributors include eminent founders of the field including Cheryll Glotfelty and Jonathan Bate a number of key second wave ecocritics and the best up and coming scholars Topics covered include Green Shakespeare the Bard's subversive uses of the pastoral John Clare's sacred relationship with the land Thoreau's profound political passion the natural landscape as symbol of postcolonial resistance in works by Lessing Naipaul and Coetzee the relation between feminism and environmentalism language and the concept of biosemiotics and concerns over pollution and toxicity in films like Erin Brockovitch Michael Clayton and Al Gore's An Inconvenient Truth

Australian Climate Law in Global Context

Alexander Zahar, Jacqueline Peel, Lee Godden, 2012-12-06 Australian Climate Law in Global Context is a comprehensive guide to current climate change law in Australia and internationally It includes discussion of emission trading schemes and carbon pricing laws laws on renewable energy biosequestration carbon capture and storage and energy efficiency the trading of emission offsets between developed and developing countries the new international scheme for the protection of forests REDD and the transfer of green finance and technology from developed to developing states the adaptation to climate change through legal frameworks It assesses the international climate change regime from a legal perspective focusing on Australia's unique circumstances and its domestic implementation of climate related treaties It considers how the challenge of climate change should be integrated into broader environmental law and management It is a valuable resource for students in law and environmental science for current and future legal practitioners and for policy makers and those in the commercial sector

What is the Future? John Urry, 2016-09-06 Thinking about the future is essential for almost all organizations and societies States corporations universities cities NGOs and individuals believe they cannot miss the future But what exactly is the future It remains a mystery perhaps the greatest mystery especially because futures are unpredictable and often unknowable the outcome of many factors known and unknown The future is rarely a simple extrapolation from the present In this important book John Urry seeks to capture the many efforts that have been made to anticipate visualize and elaborate the future This includes examining the methods used to model the future from those of the RAND Corporation to imagined future worlds in philosophy literature art film TV and computer games He shows that futures are often contested and saturated with different interests especially in relation to future generations He also shows how analyses of social institutions practices and lives should be central to examining potential futures and issues such as who owns the future The future seems to be characterized by wicked problems There are multiple causes and solutions long term lock ins and complex interdependencies and different social groups have radically different frames for understanding what is at stake Urry explores these issues through case studies of 3D printing and the future of manufacturing mobilities in the city and the futures of energy and climate change Development Education in Policy and Practice Stephen McCloskey, 2014-04-09

Development education is a radical form of learning that addresses the structural causes of poverty and injustice in the global North and South This volume debates development education practice and the policy environment in which it is delivered It affirmatively points to the transformative power of education as a means toward social change

The New Poetics of Climate Change Matthew Griffiths, 2017-07-27 Climate change is the greatest issue of our time and yet too often literature on the subject is considered only in the bracket of environmental writing divorced from culture society and politics The New Poetics of Climate Change argues instead that the emergence of global warming presents a fundamental challenge to the way we read and write poetry the way we think in the modern age In this important new book Matthew Griffiths demonstrates that Modernism's radical reinvigorations of literary form over the last century represent an engagement with key intellectual questions that we still need to address if we are to comprehend the scale and complexity of climate change Through an extended examination of Modernist poetry including the work of T S Eliot Wallace Stevens Basil Bunting and David Jones and their influence on present day poets including Jorie Graham Griffiths explores how Modernist modes can help us describe and engage with the terrifying dynamics of a warming world and offer a poetics of our climate
