Engines Of Anxiety:

Engines of Anxiety Wendy Nelson Espeland, Michael Sauder, Wendy Espeland, 2016-05-09 Students and the public routinely consult various published college rankings to assess the quality of colleges and universities and easily compare different schools. However, many institutions have responded to the rankings in ways that benefit neither the schools nor their students. In Engines of Anxiety, sociologists Wendy Espeland and Michael Sauder delve deep into the mechanisms of law school rankings, which have become a top priority within legal education. Based on a wealth of observational data and over 200 in-depth interviews with law students, university deans, and other administrators, they show how the scramble for high rankings has affected the missions and practices of many law schools. Engines of Anxiety tracks how rankings such as those published annually by the U.S. News World Report permeate every aspect of legal education, beginning with the admissions process. The authors find that prospective law students not only rely heavily on such rankings to evaluate school quality but also internalize rankings as expressions of their own abilities and flaws. For example, they often view rejections from first-tier schools as a sign of personal failure. The rankings also affect the decisions of admissions officers who try to balance admitting diverse classes with preserving the school's ranking, which is dependent on factors such as the median LSAT score of the entering class. Espeland and Sauder find that law schools face pressure to admit applicants with high test scores over lower-scoring candidates who possess other favorable credentials. Engines of Anxiety also reveals how rankings have influenced law schools' career service departments. Because graduates' job placements play a major role in the rankings, many institutions have shifted their career services resources toward tracking placements and away from counseling and network building. In turn, law firms regularly use school rankings to recruit and screen job candidates, perpetuating a cycle in which highly ranked schools enjoy increasing prestige. As a result, the rankings create and reinforce a rigid hierarchy that penalizes lower-tier schools that do not conform to the restrictive standards used in the rankings. The authors show that as law schools compete to improve their rankings, their programs become more homogenized and less accessible to non-traditional students. The ranking system is considered a valuable resource for learning about more than 200 law schools. Yet Engines of Anxiety shows that the drive to increase a school's rankings has negative consequences for students, educators, and administrators and has implications for all educational programs that are quantified in similar ways.

Ambition Deborah L. Rhode, 2021-08-02 An engaging account of ambition, the forces that drive and constrain it, and whether it serves our deepest needs. Ambition is a dominant force in human civilization, driving its greatest achievements and most horrific abuses. Our striving has brought art, airplanes, and antibiotics, as well as wars, genocide, and despotism. This mixed record raises obvious concerns about how we can channel ambition in the most productive directions. In Ambition, Deborah L. Rhode offers a comprehensive and engaging survey of the topic that focuses in particular on the nature of ambition in contemporary American life. To do this, she first explores three central focuses of ambition: recognition, power, and money, and argues that an excessive preoccupation with these external markers for success can be self defeating for individuals and toxic for society She then shifts to discussing the obstacles to constructive ambition and the consequences when ambitions are skewed or blocked by inequality and identity related characteristics such as gender race class and national origin Rhode further addresses the ways that families schools and colleges might play a more effective role in developing positive ambition Finally she examines what sorts of ambitions contribute to sustained well being such as building relationships and contributing to society rather than chasing extrinsic rewards such as wealth power and fame Drawing upon leading thinkers on the topic and contemporary social science research while laying out an agenda for how ambition can be better developed Ambition will force us reconsider the factors that shape our ambitions and whether those ambitions meet our deepest needs and highest aspirations Evaluation at Work Bénédicte Vidaillet, 2021-12-21 Evaluation at work has attracted much criticism and its damaging effects are well known so why does it continue to gain ground in every field Evaluation at Work A Psychoanalytical Critique offers an original answer to this question evaluation spreads because we want to be evaluated Developing a critical reflection from a psychoanalytic perspective it argues that workers are not mere victims of evaluation systems but are complicit in them In this fascinating volume Bénédicte Vidaillet focuses on the aspects of our subjectivity that come into play in evaluation at work our expectations desires need for recognition our conceptions of ourselves at work as well as our relationship with others such as colleagues managers or clients to explore how evaluation affects us where it gets its evocative power and what it stirs within us to make us want it despite its detrimental effects in its currently practiced form Chapters draw on real life examples case studies from a variety of organizations and observations from clinical practice to provide insight into the many mechanisms that have enabled evaluation to spread unimpeded through our subjective complicity in the process revealing how they came to seem so innocuous This book will be of interest to scholars studying the topic of evaluation at work from a critical perspective as well as professionals who use evaluation systems or are under the pressure of evaluation in all sectors and organizations By exposing the psychological mechanisms that evaluation uses to appeal to us it gives each of us the tools we need to break free of its grasp Emotions as Engines of History Rafał Boryśławski, Alicja Bemben, 2021-09-23 Seeking to bridge the gap between various approaches to the study of emotions this volume aims at a multidisciplinary examination of connections between emotions and history and the ways in which these connections have manifested themselves in historiography cultural and literary studies The book offers a selected range of insights into the idea of emotions affects and emotionality as driving forces and agents of change in history The fifteen essays it comprises probe into the emotional motives and dispositions behind both historical phenomena and the ways they were narrated The Force of Comparison Willibald Steinmetz, 2019-09-01 In an era defined by daily polls institutional rankings and other forms of social quantification it can be easy to forget that comparison has a long historical lineage Presenting a range of multidisciplinary perspectives this volume investigates the concepts and practices of comparison from the early modern period to the present Each chapter
