Fifth World Of Forster Bennett Portrait:

The Fifth World of Forster Bennett Vincent Crapanzano, 2003-01-01 It is told that the ancestors of the Navajos journeyed through four worlds to reach the fifth or present one The pressing complexities and underlying wonder of their fifth world of modern reservation life are portrayed in this classic ethnographic account by Vincent Crapanzano As a young inexperienced anthropologist Crapanzano spent a summer with a Navajo man he calls Forster Bennett In his fifties Bennett was raised during the early reservation years fought in the South Pacific in the Second World War and like many carried a deep but not always openly expressed resentment toward whites Crapanzano's honest and gritty account of his time with Bennett and Bennett's community reveals a stark portrait of the flat slow quality of reservation life where boredom and poverty coexist with age old sacred rituals and the varying ways that Navajos react and adjust to changes in their culture

Bouchetoux, 2013-12-03 A call for new methods for anthropology this book explores the nature of anthropological knowledge and the conditions of integration and communication with people Starting with an analysis of anthropologists' guilt Fan addresses issues of reflexivity reciprocity and respect then builds on this to evaluate how researchers generate knowledge A Companion to the Anthropology of American Indians Thomas Biolsi, 2008-04-15 This Companion is comprised of 27 original contributions by leading scholars in the field and summarizes the state of anthropological knowledge of Indian peoples as well as the history that got us to this point Surveys the full range of American Indian anthropology from ecological and political economic questions to topics concerning religion language and expressive culture

The Journal of Arizona History, 1965 The Publishers Weekly, 1924 Reflections on Fieldwork in Morocco Paul Rabinow, 2016-08-05 In this landmark study now celebrating thirty years in print Paul Rabinow takes as his focus the fieldwork that anthropologists do. How valid is the process? To what extent do the cultural data become artifacts of the interaction between anthropologist and informants? Having first published a more standard ethnographic study about Morocco, Rabinow here describes a series of encounters with his informants in that study from a French innkeeper clinging to the vestiges of a colonial past to the rural descendants of a seventeenth century saint. In a new preface Rabinow considers the thirty year life of this remarkable book and his own distinguished career.

Terrain of Memory Kirsten Emiko McAllister, 2011-01-01 For communities who have been the target of political violence the after effects can haunt what remains of their families, their communities, and the societies in which they live. Terrain of Memory tells the story of the Japanese Canadian elders who built a memorial in 1994 to mark a village in an isolated mountainous valley in British Columbia with their history of internment. It explores memory as a powerful collective cultural practice following elders and locals as they worked together to transform a site of political violence into a space for remembrance. They transformed a valley where once over 7 000 women, men, and children were interned into a pilgrimage site where Japanese Canadians can mourn and also pay their respects to the wartime generation. This is a compelling story about how collectively excavating painful memories can contribute to building relations across social and intergenerational divides.

The American West, 1972

Invisible Genealogies Regna Darnell, 2001-01-01 Invisible Genealogies is a landmark reinterpretation of the history of anthropology in North America. During the past two decades, theorizing by many American anthropologists has called for an experimental moment grounded in explicit self-reflexive scholarship and experimentation with alternate forms of presentation. Such postmodern anthropology has effectively downplayed connections with past luminaries in the field whose scholarship is perceived to be uncomfortably colonialist and nonreflexive. Ironically, as the American Anthropological Association nears its one hundredth anniversary and interest in the history of the discipline is at an all time high, that history has been effectively presented as removed from and irrelevant to the new generation. Invisible Genealogies offers an alternative compelling vision of the development of anthropology in North America, one that emphasizes continuity rather than discontinuity from legendary founder Franz Boas to the present. Regna Darnell identifies key interpretive assumptions and practices that have persisted sometimes in modified form since the groundbreaking work of A L Kroeber Boas Ruth Benedict Edward Sapir Elsie Clews Parsons Paul Radin Benjamin Lee Whorf and A Irving Hallowell during the founding decades of anthropology Also highlighted are the Americanist roots of postmodern anthropology and the work of innovative recent scholars like Claude L vi Strauss and Clifford Geertz The Library Journal Book Review R. R. Bowker LLC,1973
