Fifty Something Fifty Something:

The Accidental Immigrant David Bouchier, 2004-06-24 Transatlantic humorist David Bouchier brings wit wisdom and a touch of philosophy to the everyday dramas of American suburban life This book brings together more than a hundred essays originally broadcast on National Public Radio or published in his Out of Order column in the Sunday New York Times When work and marriage brought David Bouchier to Long Island in 1986 the endless suburbs seemed mysterious and exotic to him He was inspired to begin writing essays and newspaper columns about his life there a personal and public diary of the Resident Alien experience In 1992 a weekly public radio essay was added to the newspaper columns and thousands of listeners still enjoy David s weekly radio broadcasts These are the affectionate and sometimes acerbic observations of an Accidental Immigrant who still finds life in America endlessly stimulating and wonderfully strange David Bouchier s thoughts about love life liberty and the pursuit of happiness in the suburbs will make you smile and make you think Boring suburban rituals like lawn care mall shopping wedding rehearsals and barbecues will never seem the same again Idioms and their experience with the HIV AIDS virus and their political participation different from their counterparts of people with HIV Michele Tracy Berger argues that it is the influence of a phenomenon she labels intersectional stigma a complex process by which women of color already experiencing race class and gender oppression are also labeled judged and given inferior treatment because of their status as drug users sex workers and HIV positive women The work explores the barriers of stigma in relation to political participation and demonstrates how stigma can be effectively challenged and redirected The majority of the women in Berger s book are women of color in particular African Americans and Latinas The study elaborates the process by which these women have become conscious of their social position as HIV positive and politically active as activists advocates or helpers She builds a picture of community based political participation that challenges popular medical and scholarly representations of crack addicted prostitutes and HIV positive women as social problems or victims rather than as agents of social change Berger argues that the women s development of a political identity is directly related to a process called life reconstruction This process includes substance abuse treatment the recognition of gender as a salient factor in their lives and the use of nontraditional political resources

Neil's Manny Hillman,2001-04-06 After an absence of almost fifty years Larry looked for a cabaret that he had worked in as a waiter and found that it had been replaced by a parking lot In his youth he was an innocent aspiring writer just out of college looking for a place to work where hopefully he could obtain material for short stories He found Neils the cabaret and talked his way into a job as a waiter despite the dangers and his slight appearance Neils was a clip joint that was frequented mainly by servicemen and prostitutes Larrys education removing him from navet began quickly Larry describes his first meeting of prostitutes an alcoholic man whose intoxication increased without even drinking the rum he had ordered and encounters with servicemen who were benign and threatening He also describes the musical entertainment provided by the cabaret that helped entice people to enter the place women who came to Neils who may or may not have been prostitutes army stories that some of the soldiers told him a wedding in the cabaret nights of fear fights that he had to avoid and a musician who had survived the second world war and dreamt some weird dreams Incidents about Larrys non cabaret life enter the narration including his meeting the woman he married Flo an artist would have supported him in his effort to write but other matters intervened and Larry had to wait almost fifty years to resurrect his notes and write his tale Tales of the Jazz Age F. True North T. A. Harshaw, 2023-05-25 IS THERE REALLY SUCH THING AS DESTINY North Clark has been wandering for years Two bad marriages the tragic death of her son and the ensuing guardianship of her infant granddaughter has left her smack dab in the middle of a life she hadn t planned for A life that is far better than it used to be but still one that she s too afraid to live fully and still not the one she s dreamed of having At fifty one she wonders if life has any real meaning at all or if it s just one misguided adventure after another and she s been traveling too long in the wrong direction to turn around Griffin Dalton believes in destiny and what is meant for him After all he was reared by people who knew their places in the world He was taught by them that it was wise to give credence to the certainty of maps and compasses To have a healthy respect for guiding principles and predetermined courses of events and to stay those courses in the direction of destiny But his ex wife s infidelity and his own struggle to commit again has him questioning the reality of fate And then a single event merges North and Griffin s separate paths and for the first time in a long time she imagines that there is much more to life than the chaotic journey she s settled for and he realizes that while destinations are attractive and desirable things there is some virtue in the flexibility of detours on the way to them
