Social Media Graham Meikle, 2016-02-05 Social media platforms have captured the attention and imagination of many millions of people enabling their users to develop and display their creativity to empathize with others and to find connection communication and communion But they are also surveillance systems through which those users become complicit in their own commercial exploitation In this accessible book Graham Meikle explores the tensions between these two aspects of social media From Facebook and Twitter to Reddit and YouTube Meikle examines social media as industries and as central sites for understanding the cultural politics of everyday life Building on the new forms of communication and citizenship brought about by these platforms he analyzes the meanings of sharing and privacy internet memes remix cultures and citizen journalism Throughout Social Media engages with questions of visibility performance platforms and users and demonstrates how networked digital media are adopted and adapted in an environment built around the convergence of personal and public communication

The Digital Banal Zara Dinnen, 2018-01-02 Contemporary culture is haunted by its media Yet in their ubiquity digital media have become increasingly banal making it harder for us to register their novelty or the scope of the social changes they have wrought What do we learn about our media environment when we look closely at the ways novelists and filmmakers narrate and depict banal use of everyday technologies How do we encounter our own media use in scenes of waiting for e mail watching eBay bids programming as work and worrying about numbers of social media likes friends and followers Zara Dinnen analyzes a range of prominent contemporary novels films and artworks to contend that we live in the condition of the digital banal not noticing the affective and political novelty of our relationship to digital media Authors like Jennifer Egan Dave Eggers Sheila Heti Jonathan Lethem Gary Shteyngart Colson Whitehead Mark Amerika Ellen Ullman and Danica Novgorodoff and films such as The Social Network and Catfish critique and reveal the ways in which digital labor isolates the individual how the work of programming has become an operation of power and the continuation of the Californian ideology which has folded the radical into the rote and the imaginary into the mundane The works of these writers and artists Dinnen argues also offer ways of resisting the more troubling aspects of the effects of new technologies as well as timely methods for seeing the digital banal as a politics of suppression Bridging the gap between literary studies and media studies The Digital Banal recovers the shrouded disturbances that can help us recognize and antagonize our media environment

Feminism, Labour and Digital Media Kylie Jarrett, 2015-11-19 There is a contradiction at the heart of digital media We use commercial platforms to express our identity to build community and to engage politically At the same time our status updates tweets videos photographs and music files are free content for these sites We are also generating an almost endless supply of user data that can be mined re purposed and sold to advertisers As users of the commercial web we are socially and creatively engaged but also labourers exploited by the companies that provide our communication platforms How do we reconcile these contradictions Feminism Labour and Digital Media argues for using the work of Marxist feminist theorists about the role of domestic work in capitalism to explore these competing dynamics of consumer labour It uses the concept of the Digital Housewife to outline the relationship between the work we do online and the unpaid sphere of social reproduction It demonstrates how feminist perspectives expand our critique of consumer labour in digital media In doing so the Digital Housewife returns feminist inquiry from the margins and places it at the heart of critical digital media analysis
