Creating capabilities Martha Craven Nussbaum, 2011      The brazilian CFIA model as a mechanism for enhancing protection and respect for socio-economic rights Marina Martins Martes, 2023-09-28 This research evaluates whether the new model of investment agreement developed by Brazil CFIA is a mechanism for enhancing protection and respect for social and economic rights The research starts by exploring the origins of investment treaties their development and main characteristics It examines why investment treaties and socio economic rights are related by mapping cases in which investment treaties have already impaired the protection of such rights The research then analyzes how these two issues shall be jointly handled It considers international organizations initiatives to regulate business and human rights and investment treaties frameworks that foster sustainable development as well as new investment agreements models developed by different countries and then suggests criteria for evaluating whether an investment treaty is adequate from the socio economic rights standpoint Finally this research investigates the CFIA model brings a brief historical overview evaluates CFIA's wording and examines how some CFIA's institutional mechanisms consider corporate social responsibility issues In conclusion this research asserts that the CFIA model can be a mechanism for enhancing protection and respect for socio economic rights but some concerns particularly related to safeguarding States regulatory space and providing for stronger obligations to investors and States to protect human rights need to be addressed      Law as Civic Education Ariel Liberman, 2025-06-27 If a civic education is the essential foundation for a functioning discursive democracy how should it be taught This book offers an innovative solution arguing that far from abandoning the often grand promise of civic education as a means of cultivating reasoning skills and democratic character we should embrace it and proposes a reimagined civic education based on teaching students in primary and secondary school law and legal reasoning Drawing on a range of theoretical disciplines law philosophy ethics sociology psychology and moral educational and child development theory this monograph justifies the benefits of law learning as a form of character and civic education and offers historical and comparative educational examples to show what is possible It demonstrates how legal teaching can be incorporated into a K 12 curriculum and argues that such training can be transformative guiding students to become citizens capable of meeting the demands of democracy citizens with stronger reasoning skills a motivation to self examine their values and beliefs and bring them into conversation with social values and an ability to effectively navigate political institutions and participate in public discourse This compelling and deeply original work will be of interest to scholars and educators in the fields of civic education character and virtue education legal studies and philosophy of education      Universities and Global Human Development Alejandra Boni, Melanie Walker, 2016-04-14 This book makes the case for a critical turn in development thinking around universities and their contributions in making a more equal post 2015 world It puts forward a normative approach based on human development and the capability approach one which can gain a hearing from policy scholarship and practitioners dealing with practical issues of understanding policy democratising research and knowledge and fostering student learning all key university functions The book argues that such an approach can elucidate development debates drawing on local national and international issues and examples to show why higher education matters for sustainable development goals both in educational and social terms It advocates a new arena of engagement with universities as key sites of development and freedoms beyond human capital and challenges development omissions and gaps around university education The book explores how the human development approach addresses the following core ideas the meaning of well being the idea of agency participation and democratic citizenship how to address inequalities the relation between local and global and the idea of equitable partnerships This book is addressed to researchers and postgraduate students in development studies university education the capability approach and human development community Deconstructing Human Development Juan Telleria, 2020-12-09 This book provides a critical deconstruction of the human development framework promoted by the United Nations Development Programme UNDP since 1990 Taking the Human Development Reports of the UNDP as its starting point for reflection this book investigates the construction of this framework as well as its political function since the end of the Cold War The book argues that the UNDP's discourse on development relies on essentialist philosophical cultural and political assumptions dating back to the 19th century and concludes that these assumptions also present in the MDGs and SDGs impede a full grasp of the complex and multi layered global problems of the current world Whilst development critiques traditionally relied on liberal Marxist or Foucauldian theoretical frameworks and focused on epistemological or political economy issues this book draws on the post foundational and post structuralist work of Ernesto Laclau and Jacques Derrida and proposes an ontological and relational reading of development discourses that both complements and further develops the insights of previous critiques This book is key reading for advanced students and researchers of Critical Development Studies Political Science the UN and Sustainable Development Higher Education Pathways Ashwin, Paul, Case, Jennifer M., 2018-12-14

In what ways does access to undergraduate education have a transformative impact on people and societies What conditions are required for this impact to occur What are the pathways from an undergraduate education to the public good including inclusive economic development These questions have particular resonance in the South African higher education context which is attempting to tackle the challenges of widening access and improving completion rates in a system in which the segregations of the apartheid years are still apparent Higher education is recognised in core legislation as having a distinctive and crucial role in building post apartheid society Undergraduate education is seen as central to addressing skills shortages in South Africa It is also seen to yield significant social returns including a consistent positive impact on societal institutions and the development of a range of capabilities

O'Dell, Devin K. Joshi, 2024-01-29 Stories of humans striving for the good life are the focus of this new text from Roni Kay M O Dell and Devin K Joshi grounding students understanding of globalization and international development in real human and practical experience Globalization and Human Development provides a new history and focus to the study of international development with a concern for how people have been included or continue to be left out of the center of development thinking and practice While many books on international relations ignore the contributions and influence of the Global South this book incorporates their important contributions while at the same time recognizing the continued inequalities and disproportionate power and wealth of these marginalized nations This book is the first to examine the globalization of the human development and capability approach HDCA as an ideology of international development and an ideology of globalization It explores the relationship between HDCA and globalization and the extent to which the HDCA has been globalizing Further the authors analysis looks at How certain HDCA ideas are promoted discussed and cited more often than those stemming from neoliberalism and other development paradigms How the HDCA was influenced by development thinking in the Global South during the Cold War along with mobilizations to end all forms of colonialism neocolonialism and imperialism Why the HDCA has re oriented global development thinking and practice away from state centric and profit focused development models fixated on GDP growth to prioritize individual well being and freedoms      The Capability Approach and Sustainability Ortrud Lessmann, Felix Rauschmayer, 2016-03-16 This is the first book dedicated exclusively to the question of the relationships between sustainability and the capability approach It is rather astonishing that the issue of sustainability first posed by the Brundtland commission in 1987 has gained so little attention from capability scholars despite the approach s focus on human well being This book starts with a seminal contribution by Sen on the Ends and Means of Sustainability delivered as a keynote in 2000 All contributions to the book focus on the difficulties that arise from a freedom oriented view of sustainability they argue for taking note of the impact of human life on nature they question the meaning of intergenerational justice when measured in the currency of substantive freedoms capabilities they raise the issue of collective responsibility and suggest ways to model and operationalize the capability approach to sustainable development The book presents the state of the art concerning The capability approach and sustainability while admitting that it is only a first contribution to a growing field that deserves our attention Defining what is to be sustained and asking how it can be sustained This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Human Development and Capabilities The Routledge Handbook of Environmental Justice Ryan Holifield, Jayajit Chakraborty, Gordon Walker, 2017-09-14 The Routledge Handbook of Environmental Justice presents an extensive and cutting edge introduction to the diverse rapidly growing body of research on pressing issues of environmental justice and injustice With wide ranging discussion of current debates controversies and questions in the history theory and methods of environmental justice research contributed by over 90 leading social scientists natural scientists humanists and scholars from professional disciplines from six continents it is an essential resource both for newcomers to this research and for experienced scholars and practitioners The chapters of this volume examine the roots of environmental justice activism lay out and assess key theories and approaches and consider the many different substantive issues that have been the subject of activism empirical research and policy development throughout the world The Handbook features critical reviews of quantitative qualitative and mixed methodological approaches and explicitly addresses interdisciplinarity transdisciplinarity and engaged research Instead of adopting a narrow regional focus it tackles substantive issues and presents perspectives from political and cultural systems across the world as well as addressing activism for environmental justice at the global scale Its chapters do not simply review the state of the art but also propose new conceptual frameworks and directions for research policy and practice Providing detailed but accessible overviews of the complex varied dimensions of environmental justice and injustice the Handbook is an essential guide and reference not only for researchers engaged with environmental justice but also for undergraduate and graduate teaching and for policymakers and activists Measuring the Unmeasurable in Education Elaine

Unterhalter, 2020-04-28 Debates around quality versus quantity in education can generate controversy about how quality is measured Many question the drive to delineate and quantify precisely what works suggesting that much value either cannot be measured or is distorted by measurement This book explores how we can understand measurement in areas of education policy planning and practice that have not previously been considered measurable The contributors ask four main questions What do we measure and not measure when we try to measure the unmeasurable in education When attempts have been made to measure the unmeasurable in education what metrics have been adopted in which contexts and with what outcomes Why have measures been adopted as indicators of the unmeasurable such as human rights And how have particular organisations approached the problem of measuring the apparently unmeasurable in education with what epistemological normative and conceptual resources and consequences The book draws on analyses from philosophy history sociology and economics with insights from national and international contexts The contributions consider philosophical distinctions historical experiences and contemporary reflections on how to refine existing approaches to measurement of poverty capability rights and the benefits of education The discussion shows how measuring the unmeasurable takes account of the inequalities complexities and uncertainties of work in education thus suggesting a considerable deepening of the notion of education quality and measurement This book was originally published as a special issue of Comparative Education
