How to Create a Culture of Achievement in Your School and Classroom Douglas Fisher, Nancy Frey, Ian Pumpian, 2012-04-26 What does it feel like to walk into your school Is it a welcoming place where everyone feels valued Most school improvement efforts focus on academic goals instructional models curriculum and assessments But sometimes what can make or break your learning community are the intangibles the relationships identity and connections that make up its culture Authors Fisher Frey and Pumpian believe that no school improvement effort will be effective unless school culture is addressed They identify five pillars that are critical to building a culture of achievement

- 1 Welcome Imagine if all staff members in your school considered it their job to make every student parent and visitor feel noticed welcomed and valued
- 2 Do no harm Your school rules should be tools for teaching students to become the moral and ethical citizens you expect them to be
- 3 Choice words When the language students hear helps them tell a story about themselves that is one of possibility and potential students perform in ways that are consistent with that belief
- 4 It's never too late to learn Can you push students to go beyond the minimum needed to get by to discover what they are capable of achieving
- 5 Best school in the universe Is your school the best place to teach and learn The best place to work

Drawing on their years of experience in the classroom the authors explain how these pillars support good teaching and learning In addition they provide 19 action research tools that will help you create a culture of achievement so that your school or classroom is the best it can be After reading this book you'll see why culture makes the difference between a school that enables success for all students and a school that merely houses those students during the school day
