servitization tended to stress only its advantages more recently scholars have also started to refer to the challenges associated with servitization This book attempts to give a balanced picture of servitization The book is structured in four parts Part I introduces the topic by presenting the most recent academic discussion about servitization and uses an empirical analysis to show the degree of servitization across Europe The results of this analysis are then compared to the discussion in the literature This comparison highlights the existing discrepancies between the rather euphoric literature and the more skeptical practical experience The second and third parts attempt to explain these discrepancies by taking as a starting point the assumption that servitization recommendations have to consider the heterogeneity of the manufacturing sector and the capabilities of the provider Part II presents articles which analyze the specific characteristics of different sectors with their barriers and potentials and presents frameworks for a successful servitization of the core sectors in European manufacturing industries which include e g aeronautics automotive ICT chemical industries pulp and paper industries and different engineering sectors Part III focuses on companies capabilities which are necessary for successful servitization These include strategic management marketing organization innovation engineering human resources controlling quality and networks All the contributions in parts II and III add up to a detailed picture of servitization for sectors and functions and indicate the practical implications for enterprises in manufacturing industries The fourth part concludes the book with a chapter summarizing the findings and giving an outlook of servitization in manufacturing industries its challenges and future developments

Gaining a Comparative Advantage in the Sports Industry as a Tennis Service Provider in Hamburg, Germany. Design Thinking Methodology, 2023-11-30 Seminar paper from the year 2023 in the subject Sport Sport Economics Sport Management grade 1.0 Hamburg School of Business Administration gGmbH course Project Management language English abstract The report focuses on gaining a comparative advantage in the sports industry for a tennis service provider in Hamburg Germany by applying Design Thinking methodology. It explores the integration of Design Thinking and comparative advantage theories using the case of Tennis GmbH to illustrate their application. The report demonstrates how Design Thinking can help the company innovate and create unique services thereby achieving a comparative advantage. It also examines the theoretical aspects of these methodologies and their practical implementation in the business case of Tennis GmbH. The conclusion discusses the outcomes and limitations of applying these theories to Tennis GmbH's business model. In recent years Design Thinking has gained widespread popularity in various fields including business and management. In the context of a tennis service company the adoption of Design Thinking can create a comparative advantage by allowing the company to differentiate itself from its competitors and offer unique and innovative products and services to its customers. But is that really so? A connection between those two theories has not yet been discussed in the literature. According to the theory of comparative advantage firms can improve their competitiveness and profits by focusing on the production of goods and services in which they have a lower relative cost and trading with others who have a lower relative cost in the production of other goods. By using Design Thinking to create innovative products and services a tennis service company can stand out from its competitors and potentially lower its production costs. The elaboration includes the view of two theories Design Thinking and comparative advantage. In addition a business case of a tennis service company is dealt with and the use of the theories is discussed. The aim is to show how these two theories can be brought together and how they build on each other. Finally it should become clear whether the described business case was successful and whether further recommendations can be made.
