Contemporary Co-housing in Europe Pernilla Hagbert, Henrik Gutzon Larsen, Håkan Thörn, Cathrin Wasshede, 2019-11-18 This book investigates co housing as an alternative housing form in relation to sustainable urban development Co housing is often lauded as a more sustainable way of living The primary aim of this book is to critically explore co housing in the context of wider social economic political and environmental developments This volume fills a gap in the literature by contextualising co housing and related housing forms With focus on Denmark Sweden Hamburg and Barcelona the book presents general analyses of co housing in these contexts and provides specific discussions of co housing in relation to local government urban activism family life spatial logics and socio ecology This book will be of interest to students and researchers in a broad range of social scientific fields concerned with housing urban development and sustainability as well as to planners decision makers and activists

The Co-Housing Phenomenon Emanuele Giorgi, 2020-01-28 This book presents 50 case studies of contemporary co housing projects spread all over the world to show how communities of shared living have become a global phenomenon that can serve as a tool to promote social and urban sustainability By presenting evidence that shared housing experiences are capable of revitalizing sterile urban fabrics and promoting social sustainable practices the volume situates co housing experiences as microscale responses to the macroscale challenges posed by environmental degradation and the decline of communitarian ways of living The volume also reviews the most famous typologies of shared living in different parts of the world across human history By analyzing historical experiences in different regions of Africa Americas Asia Europe and Oceania the author shows that living together is part of a historical culture of sharing that is being rediscovered all over the world by people who activate public spaces work in shared offices or live in contractual communities The Co Housing Phenomenon Environmental Alliance in Times of Changes will be of interest to both professionals and scholars involved in urban design urban planning and architecture especially those in the field of sustainable urbanism It will also be a valuable resource for public agents and civil society organizations dealing with housing social environmental and sustainability policies

Eco-Homes Doctor Jenny

Pickerill,2016-01-15 It is widely understood that good affordable eco housing needs to be at the heart of any attempt to mitigate or adapt to climate change This is the first book to comprehensively explore eco housing from a geographical social and political perspective It starts from the premise that we already know how to build good eco houses and we already have the technology to retrofit existing housing Despite this relatively few eco houses are being built Featuring over thirty case studies of eco housing in Britain Spain Thailand Argentina and the United States Eco Homes examines the ways in which radical changes to our houses such as making them more temporary using natural materials or relying on manual heating and ventilation systems require changes in how we live As such it argues it is not lack of technology or political will that is holding us back from responding to climate change but deep rooted cultural and social understandings of our way of life and what we expect our houses to do for us Encyclopedia of the City Roger W. Caves,2005 A first class work of reference that will be both an essential resource for independent study as well as a useful aid in teaching a solid but also provocative starting point for wider exploration of the city Courtyard Housing for Health and Happiness Donia Zhang,2016-03-09 Health and happiness are fundamental to human quality of life The United Nations World Happiness Report 2012 reflects a new worldwide call for governments to include happiness as a criterion to their policies The Healthy Cities or Happy Cities movement has been endorsed by the WHO since 1986 and a Healthy House or Happy Home is a critical constituent of a healthy city or a happy city Nevertheless the concept has not been fully explored Existing literature on the healthy house has often focused on the technical economic environmental or biochemical aspects while current scholarship on the happy home commonly centers on interior decoration Few studies have addressed the importance of social and cultural factors that affect the health and happiness of the occupants Identifying four key themes in Chinese philosophy to promote health and happiness at home this book links architecture with Chinese philosophy social sciences and the humanities and in doing so argues that Architectural Multiculturalism is a vital ideology to guide housing design in North America Using both qualitative and quantitative evidence gathered from ethnic Chinese and non Chinese living in the USA and Canada the study proposes that the Courtyard is a central component to promote social and cultural health and happiness of residents It further details courtyard garden house design strategies that combine a sense of privacy with a feeling of community as represented in courtyard housing The schemes may have universal implications Living Green Jennifer Fosket,Laura Mamo,2009-06-01 This interesting book analyzes green communities thriving in North America and the people who build them The authors provide case studies of a commune in Virginia an ecovillage in L A and green active adult communities among other examples The book ends with a list of 10 lessons about social sustainability Sierra Club The Green Life Social issues are and need to be a central part of environmental and economic sustainability efforts Using stories of extraordinary communities across North America Living Green showcases the social side of living green The book features communities that explicitly integrate social and human factors into their design and planning and examines the impact living in these communities has on personal health well being and the capacity for pursuing sustainability It includes interviews with developers architects and residents highlighting personal ideals and efforts to pursue a sustainable lifestyle The book s three parts explore How community is central to sustainable living in everything from cohousing to communes Communities that specifically integrate green building design components with social justice politics such as racism poverty and urban alienation Housing options geared toward mainstream living that offer individual choices to those who wish to live green Written for those desiring to hear a good news story Living Green will appeal to individuals and communities living a sustainable lifestyle green building activists and academics in sociology planning and design architecture and environmental fields Jennifer Fosket and Laura Mamo are professors of sociology at McGill University and the University of Maryland respectively They have each made a career out of documenting people s experiences and ideas as they concern health and everyday living They are co founders of Social Green a nonprofit organization engaged in research consulting and education Jennifer Fosket lives in Berkeley California and Montreal Canada and Laura Mamo lives in San Francisco California and Washington DC

Placemaking for Change

Richard Wener,2001 The Rudy Bruner Award for Urban Excellence RBA is a national award for urban places that promotes innovative thinking about the built environment Established in 1987 the award celebrates urban places distinguished by quality design design that considers form in conjunction with social economic and environmental issues Material Geographies of Household Sustainability Andrew Gorman-Murray,2016-05-13 Charting new research directions this book constructs a series of imperatives for linking culturally informed research around household sustainability with policy and planning The household or home is a critical scale for understanding activities that connect individual behaviours and societal attitudes The focus on the household in this collection provides a window into the sheer diversity of homemaking and maintenance activities that entail resource use These practices have affective or emotive dimensions as well as habitual aspects Diversity innovation and change at the household scale is often missed in policy approaches which assume that simplistic economic motivations drive demand and this can in turn be managed through regulation or market pricing The research challenge extends beyond describing existing unsustainable economies driving resource intensive behaviour to consider realistic options for transformations in cultural practices material relationships and ultimately the political economies they sit within Without change in these systems government initiatives to promote ecological modernisation run the risk of simply green washing the very economies of consumption that currently drive unsustainable practices Social and cultural change at the household level is critical to promoting sustainability at a range of wider scales Planning for Sustainability Stephen Wheeler,2013-07-18 How can human communities sustain a long term existence on a small planet This challenge grows ever more urgent as the threat of global warming increases Planning for Sustainability presents a wide ranging intellectually well grounded and accessible introduction to the concept of planning for more sustainable and livable communities The text explores topics such as how more compact and walkable cities and towns might be created how local ecosystems can be restored how social inequalities might be reduced how greenhouse gas emissions might be lowered and how more sustainable forms of economic development can be brought about The second edition has been extensively revised and updated throughout including an improved structure with chapters now organized under three sections the nature of sustainable planning issues central to sustainable planning and scales of sustainable planning New material includes greater discussion of climate change urban food systems the relationships between public health and the urban environment and international development Building on past schools of planning theory Planning for Sustainability lays out a sustainability planning framework that pays special attention to the rapidly evolving institutions and power structures of a globalizing world By considering in turn each scale of planning international national regional municipal neighborhood and site and building the book illustrates how sustainability initiatives at different levels can interrelate Only by weaving together planning initiatives and institutions at different scales and by integrating efforts across disciplines can we move towards long term human and ecological well being

Seeking Shelter on the Pacific Rim Gary Dymski, Dorene Isenberg, 2018-10-24 This innovative book analyzes the changes that financial globalization is bringing about in the housing and home finance markets of the United States Japan and South Korea with special attention to the circumstances of women in obtaining housing credit and personal security The book's focus on changes in the residential and housing finance markets serves as a window for an integrated examination of how the liberalization of national financial markets has affected the relationship among all players in each of the three economies government markets and individual citizens Through this examination Housing Finance Futures develops a new critical response to economic globalization based on a groundbreaking concept the social efficiency of policy and market shifts
