Ford, 2015-08-27 This landmark textbook is an essential primer for students and practitioners interested in information seeking needs and behaviour user studies and information literacy Introduction to Information Behaviour uses a combination of theory and practical context to map out what information behaviour is and what we currently know about it before addressing how it can be better understood in the future Nigel Ford argues that new understandings of information behaviour research may help maximise the quality and effectiveness of the way information is presented sought discovered evaluated and used The book introduces the key concepts issues and themes of information behaviour illustrates them using key research studies and provides a clear path through the complex maze of theories and models The book is structured to move from the basics to the more complex and employs the pedagogical device of THINK boxes which invite the reader to think about concepts as they are introduced in order to consolidate their understanding before moving on Case studies are included throughout the text and each chapter concludes with a round up of what has been covered highlighting the implications for professional information practice The key topics covered include Defining information behaviour and why is it useful to know about it Information needs Information seeking and acquisition Collaborative information behaviour Factors affecting information behaviour Models and theories of information behaviour Research approaches and methodologies Designing information systems The future trajectory of information behaviour research and practice Readership This book will be core reading for students around the world particularly those on library and information science courses It will also be of interest to practitioners and professional information users providers and developers

Third Space, Information Sharing, and Participatory Design Preben Hansen, Ina Fourie, Anika Meyer, 2021-06-18 Society faces many challenges in workplaces everyday life situations and education contexts Within information behavior research there are often calls to bridge inclusiveness and for greater collaboration with user centered design approaches and more specifically participatory design practices Collaboration and participation are essential in addressing contemporary societal challenges designing creative information objects and processes as well as developing spaces for learning and information and research interventions The intention is to improve access to information and the benefits to be gained from that This also applies to bridging the digital divide and for embracing artificial intelligence With regard to research and practices within information behavior it is crucial to consider that all users should be involved Many information activities i e activities falling under the umbrella terms of information behavior and information practices manifest through participation and thus methods such as participatory design may help unfold both information behavior and practices as well as the creation of information objects new models and theories Information sharing is one of its core activities For participatory design with its value set of democratic inclusive and open participation towards innovative practices in a diversity of contexts it is essential to understand how information activities such as sharing manifest itself For information behavior studies it is essential to deepen understanding of how information sharing manifests in order to improve access to information and the use of information Third Space is a physical virtual cognitive and conceptual space where participants may negotiate reflect and form new knowledge and worldviews working toward creative practical and applicable solutions finding innovative appropriate research methods interpreting findings proposing new theories recommending next steps and even designing solutions such as new information objects or services Information sharing in participatory design manifests in tandem with many other information interaction activities and especially information and cognitive processing Although there are practices of individual information sharing and information encountering information sharing mostly relates to collaborative information behavior practices creativity and collective decision making Our purpose with this book is to enable students researchers and practitioners within a multi disciplinary research field including information studies and Human Computer Interaction approaches to gain a deeper understanding of how the core activity of information sharing in participatory design in which Third Space may be a platform for information interaction is taking place when using methods utilized in participatory design to address contemporary societal challenges This could also apply for information behavior studies using participatory design as methodology We elaborate interpretations of core concepts such as participatory design Third Space information sharing and collaborative information behavior before discussing participatory design methods and processes in more depth We also touch on information behavior information practice and other important concepts Third Space information sharing and information interaction are discussed in some detail A framework with Third Space as a core intersecting zone platform and adaptive and creative space to study information sharing and other information behavior and interactions are suggested As a tool to envision information behavior and suggest future practices participatory design serves as a set of methods and tools in which new interpretations of the design of information behavior studies and eventually new information objects are being initiated involving multiple stakeholders in future information landscapes For this purpose we argue that Third Space can be used as an intersection zone to study information sharing and other information activities but more importantly it can serve as a Third Space Information Behavior TSIB study framework where participatory design methodology and processes are applied to information behavior research studies and applications such as information objects systems and services with recognition of the importance of situated awareness

Mapping Information Landscapes

Andrew Whitworth,2020-06-26 Mapping Information Landscapes presents the first in depth study of the educational implications of the idea of information literacy as the capacity to map and navigate an information landscape Written by a leading researcher in the field it investigates how teachers and learners can use mapping in developing their ability to make informed judgements about information in specific places and times Central to the argument is the notion that the geographical and information landscapes are indivisible and the techniques we use to navigate each are essentially the same The book presents a history of mapping as a means of representing the world ranging from the work of medieval mapmakers to the 21st century Concept and mind mapping are explored and finally the notion of discursive mapping the dialogic process regardless of whether a graphical map is an outcome The theoretical framework of the book weaves together the work of authors including Annemaree Lloyd Christine Bruce practice theorists such as Theodore Schatzki and the critical geography of David Harvey an author whose work has not previously been applied to the study of information literacy The book concludes that keeping information landscapes sustainable and navigable requires attention to how equipment is used to map and organise those landscapes How we collectively think about and solve problems in the present time inscribes maps and positions them as resources in whatever landscapes we will draw on in the future Information literacy educators whether in libraries other HE courses high schools or the workplace will benefit by learning about how mapping implicitly and explicitly can be used as a method of teaching IL The book will also be useful reading for academics and researchers of information literacy and students of library and information science

The Fifth Estate William H. Dutton, 2023 In the eighteenth century the printing press enabled the rise of an independent press the Fourth Estate that helped check the power of governments business and industry In similar ways the internet is forming a more independent collectivity of networked individuals which William H Dutton identifies as the Fifth Estate Their network power is contributing to a more pluralist role of individuals in democratic political processes and society which is not only shaping political accountability but nearly every sector of society Yet a chorus of critics have dismissed the internet's more democratic potentials demonizing social media and user generated content as simply sources of fake news and populism So is the internet a tool for democracy or anarchy In The Fifth Estate Dutton uses estate theory to illuminate the most important power shift of the digital age He argues that this network power shift is not only enabling greater democratic accountability in politics and governance but is also empowering networked individuals in their everyday life and work from checking facts to making civic minded social interventions By marshalling world leading research and case studies in a wide range of contexts Dutton demonstrates that the internet and related digital media are enabling ordinary individuals to search create network collaborate and leak information in such independent and strategic ways that they enhance their informational and communicative power vis vis other actors and institutions Dutton also makes the case that internet policy interventions across the globe have increased censorship of users and introduced levels of surveillance that will challenge the vitality of the internet and the Fifth Estate along with its more pluralist distribution of power Ambitious and timely Dutton provides an understanding of the Fifth Estate and its democratic potential so that networked individuals and institutions around the world can maintain and enhance its role in our digital age
