Domestic Politics and Drought Relief in Africa Ngonidzashe Munemo, 2012 Ngonidzashe Munemo challenges the conventional wisdom that African governments lack the technical capacity and political will to respond to drought and the threat of famine Through a comparative analysis of three politically disparate countries Botswana Kenya and Zimbabwe Munemo demonstrates that differences in the ways that governments face similar drought induced food crisis are the result not of incompetence but of rational political considerations His original analysis shows why in democracies and authoritarian regimes alike the less effective option is so often the policy choice Liber Amicorum Marius Paul Olivier, Letlhokwa George Mpedi, Evance Kalula, 2020-12-10 Though some may categorise this work as a memorial publication this book of friends is truly a celebratory publication by colleagues from Africa and beyond who had the privilege to know Edwell and Mathias personally It is a tribute to the life and work of two individuals that each made a unique contribution to social justice law and its development As evidenced by the Tributes and Lists of Publications contained herein both Edwell and Nyenti as they were colloquially known were productive scholars but they leave a legacy that extends beyond the academic realm to that of friendship and shared humanity Choice, 2000 Understanding Migrant Decisions Belachew Gebrewold, Tendayi Bloom, 2016-06-10 Examining how changing conditions in the Mediterranean Region have affected the decisions of those considering migrating from Sub Saharan Africa to or through the Region this book represents an important and overdue contribution to international policy making and academic discourse In current discussions relating to this migration phenomenon the complexity of individual decision making is often left unacknowledged so that subsequent policy responses draw upon simplified models In this volume individual decision making takes central stage by bringing together chapters that demonstrate very different types of decision making frameworks In this project it is highlighted that people move for a variety of reasons such as being affected by conflict and insecurity by economic pressures and by desire for other forms of enrichment Throughout the book s contributors find that events in the Mediterranean cannot be considered alone in understanding migration decision making from Sub Saharan Africa but as part of an increasingly complicated global system not encompassed by one simplified theory or by looking at one regional context in isolation Knowing why individual people are moving and how they decide upon which routes to take can help to ensure policy that promotes safer travel options or makes genuine alternatives to migration available Political Topographies of the African State Catherine Boone, 2003-10-27 This study brings Africa into the mainstream of studies of state formation in agrarian societies Territorial integration is the challenge institutional linkages and political deals that bind center and periphery are the solutions In African countries rulers at the center are forced to bargain with regional elites to establish stable mechanisms of rule and taxation Variation in regional forms of social organization make for differences in the interests and political strength of regional leaders who seek to maintain or enhance their power vis a vis their followers and subjects and also vis a vis the
