Bridging the Gaps James E. Rosenbaum,Caitlin E.

Ahearn, Janet E. Rosenbaum, Janet Rosenbaum, 2017-09-02 College for all has become the new American dream Most high school students today express a desire to attend college and 90% of on time high school graduates enroll in higher education in the eight years following high school Yet degree completion rates remain low for non traditional students students who are older low income or have poor academic achievement even at community colleges that endeavor to serve them What can colleges do to reduce dropouts In Bridging the Gaps education scholars James Rosenbaum Caitlin Ahearn and Janet Rosenbaum argue that when institutions focus only on bachelor s degrees and traditional college procedures they ignore other pathways to educational and career success Using multiple longitudinal studies the authors evaluate the shortcomings and successes of community colleges and investigate how these institutions can promote alternatives to BAs and traditional college procedures to increase graduation rates and improve job payoffs The authors find that sub baccalaureate credentials associate degrees and college certificates can improve employment outcomes Young adults who complete these credentials have higher employment rates earnings autonomy career opportunities and job satisfaction than those who enroll but do not complete credentials Sub BA credentials can be completed at community college in less time than bachelor s degrees making them an affordable option for many low income students Bridging the Gaps shows that when community colleges overemphasize bachelor s degrees they tend to funnel resources into remedial programs and try to get low performing students on track for a BA Yet remedial programs have inconsistent success rates and can create unrealistic expectations leading struggling students to drop out before completing any degree The authors show that colleges can devise procedures that reduce remedial placements and help students discover unseen abilities attain valued credentials get good jobs and progress on degree ladders to higher credentials To turn college for all into a reality community college students must be aware of their multiple credential and career options Bridging the Gaps shows how colleges can create new pathways for non traditional students to achieve success in their schooling and careers

Young People's Career Development and Wellbeing

Elizabeth Knight, Belgin Okay-Somerville, 2024-10-22 This book explores how career development experiences during education are relevant for wellbeing in youth career transitions from an interdisciplinary lens using longitudinal data from different national educational contexts Seven empirical chapters culminate in a conceptual model and recommendations for careers and wellbeing oriented prevention and intervention programs to assist young people as they transition into the world of work Following a foreword by Professor Stephen Lamb the Springer International Study of City Youth series editor and introduction by the editors the book consists of empirical chapters based in six national and educational contexts focusing specifically on schooling higher education and transitions between compulsory schooling and young adulthood Each national context chapter generates insights based on a longitudinal cohort study with at least two data points concerning information on young people s career development and wellbeing The empirical chapters are followed by discussion and conclusion chapters by the editors The editors reflect on the evidence generated in this book and question what we know about the relevance of career development experiences on young people's wellbeing during education to work transitions Implications of these empirical findings on career interventions and policy making across the educational systems are discussed The contributions in this book show that career development experiences while in education matters not only for employment outcomes but also for our subjective wellbeing in early careers Key conclusions point towards a need for theoretically integrating i the sensemaking role of time ii resource based approaches to careers as well as iii the efficacy of career development experiences to overcome structural inequalities Methodologically this book shows the value of nationally representative longitudinal datasets that focus on young people's educational and labour market experiences

Thinking in Childhood and Adolescence Paris S. Strom, Robert D. Strom, 2013-09-01 Until recently educators were expected to provide all the knowledge students would need to ensure their future However the Internet has altered conditions of learning in ways that motivate students to be more self directed and less dependent on direct instruction Neuroscience discoveries about brain functioning also urge schools to adopt thinking as an aspect of core curriculum Students who acquire thinking skills needed to locate information process and organize data generate creative and practical ideas communicate with all age groups and collaborate can adapt to technology change and social evolution Encouraging adolescents to choose some goals they pursue respects their need for autonomy Recognizing the need to amend certain goals is important so a person knows when change in personal direction is warranted Exploring careers in a low risk setting motivates realistic aspirations and helps students to shape their future Employer expectations for teamwork require attention Performing well in groups including peer and self evaluation yields productive thinking and is conducive to mental health The intended audience for this book is college students preparing to become teachers in preschool elementary or secondary education The book describes ways schools and families can support higher order thinking during childhood and adolescence Learning that occurs outside school is ignored by tests that reflect only classroom lessons New instruments that measure thinking are needed to enable transformation of school goals and evaluation of student progress Shifting to a dual emphasis on thinking and learning is a challenge for teachers of all grade levels

Job Skills and Minority Youth Barton J. Hirsch, 2015-11-19 Minority youth unemployment is an enduring economic and social concern This book evaluates two new initiatives for minority high school students that seek to cultivate marketable job skills The first is an after school program that provides experiences similar to apprenticeships and the second emphasizes new approaches to improving job interview performance The evaluation research has several distinct strengths It involves a randomized controlled trial uncommon in assessments of this issue and age group Marketable job skills are assessed through a mock job interview developed for this research and administered by experienced human resource professionals Mixed methods are utilized with qualitative data shedding light on what actually happens inside the programs and a developmental science approach situating the findings in terms of adolescent development Beneficial for policy makers and practitioners as well as scholars Job Skills and Minority Youth focuses on identifying the most promising tactics and addressing likely implementation issues

Intersections of Diversity, Literacy, and Learner Difficulties Theresa Abodeeb-Gentile, Dennis A. Conrad, 2022-08-22 This book invites readers to challenge corroborate and add to the discourse on more inclusive pedagogical practice Presenting theoretically and empirically informed research it highlights potential considerations regarding the intersections of diversity literacy and learner difficulties These three areas provide a stage where opposing paradigms often pose challenges for educators and create unnecessary barriers to providing the best education for all learners These barriers might reveal how students are positioned through a deficit lens rather than one that recognizes individual differences and how these learner differences sometimes result in labels or put students at increased risk of encountering difficulties The contributing authors goals are to start and sustain a conversation that examines these perspectives and to offer counter narratives to the deficit lens by recognizing that individual difference does not need to be a barrier to educational access By examining opportunities for more inclusive educational success this book encourages discourse among key stakeholders further it goes beyond problematizing to offer new avenues for optimal learning and inclusive pedagogy across multiple contexts

Understanding Employer Engagement in Education Anthony Mann, Julian Stanley, Louise Archer, 2014-05-30 This collection focuses on employer engagement in education how it is delivered and the differentiated impact it has on young people in their progression through schooling and higher education into the labour market The focus is not narrowly on vocational or technical education or work related learning but on how employer engagement eg work experience internships careers education workplace visits mentoring enterprise education etc influences the experiences and outcomes of the broad range of young people across mainstream academic learning programmes The essays explore the different ways in which education can support or constrain social mobility and in particular how employer engagement in education can have significant impact upon social mobility both positive and negative Leading international contributors examine issues surrounding employer engagement and social mobility conceptualisations of employer engagement trends in social mobility employer engagement and social class access and management of work experience social capital and aspiration access to employment The book makes employer engagement an innovative focus in relation to the well established fields of social mobility and school to work transition By examining what difference employer engagement makes the essays raise questions about conventional models and show how research drawing on different fields and disciplines can be brought together to provide a more coherent and convincing account Building on new theorisations and combining existing and new data the collection offers a systematic exploration of the influence of socio economic status on school to work transitions and addresses how educational policy can shape more efficient labour market outcomes In doing so it draws on and speaks to existing literature which has considered such questions from the perspectives of gender ethnicity and social disadvantage The History and Growth of Career and Technical Education in America Howard R. D. Gordon,Deanna Schultz,2020-04-22 Rapid changes in the workplace including progress in the areas of science technology engineering and mathematics make the contribution of career and technical education more significant than ever In the fifth edition of his foundational text Dr Gordon is joined by new coauthor Deanna Schultz Continued focus on the history philosophy structure and evolution of career and technical education highlights in depth coverage on emerging trends relevant to all areas of the field The pedagogical structure of the text presents abundant information in an accessible format The authors introduction to the origins of and early leadership in CTE lays the groundwork for later discussions of representation of women and underrepresented minorities in the discipline as well as the implications of a multigenerational workforce and global community on the way educational programs are designed for career readiness In addition to comprehensive updates this edition features a section exploring work based learning information on current legislation and a new chapter on community and technical colleges The Skills That Matter Patricia M. Noonan,Amy S. Gaumer Erickson,2017-07-20 Build skills for lifelong success Many students leave high school without the skills they need to succeed in postsecondary education and the workforce How can we better equip students for lifelong success Research demonstrates that intrapersonal and interpersonal competencies impact student behavior and achievement increase graduation rates and promote strong post school outcomes The Skills That Matter provides middle and high school educators with the resources tools and practical examples to teach key intrapersonal and interpersonal competencies including self regulation goal setting self efficacy assertiveness and conflict management Readers will find Competency specific evidence based instructional strategies with examples and Tools such as sample instructional plans formative assessments and student friendly products This book provides teachers with the practical information they need to better develop socially and emotionally engaged career equipped lifelong learners
