

PUSH BUTTON DRIVING

The push buttons for control of the forward gear speeds and reverse of the automatic transmission are located in the drive selector at the end of the instrument panel.

When using the (NEUTRAL) button to place the car in neutral or when making a selection of the driving buttons, always be sure the button is pushed firmly to its seat, to cancel the previous selection.

STARTING ENGINE

The (NEUTRAL) button must be pushed to its seat whenever the engine is to be started. The starting motor will not operate unless the transmission gears are disengaged. Turn switch key clockwise to operate starter.

STARTING ENGINE BY PUSHING

If the starter is inoperative, the engine may be started by pushing the car. To avoid the possibility of a collision, do not tow the car to start.

1. Push the (NEUTRAL) button to its seat and turn the ignition key toward the right to connect the ignition circuit.
2. Push the car to attain starting speed. At 15-25 miles per hour, push in (FIRST) button.

The engine should rotate fast enough, at the indicated speed, to start. Depress accelerator pedal half way when starting.

DRIVING THE CAR

NOTE: Keep the foot brake lightly applied or set the parking brake, to prevent "creeping," when holding the car and when starting forward or reverse from a standing start.

IMPORTANT: Push the (NEUTRAL) button when it is necessary to idle the engine while parking for an extended period. Operation of the Torque Converter coupling for a prolonged period when the car is not in motion, will cause excessive heat to develop.

Allow the engine to warm enough so that it is at smooth idle then release the parking lock and lightly apply the foot brake before setting the button for the driving gear.

Normally, to operate the car, press the (DRIVE) button and as the vehicle moves forward and picks up speed, the transmission will automatically shift through low and intermediate gear ranges to the high or direct drive.

The (FIRST) (low) button will engage the low or break-away gear and hold the transmission operation to this gear. The use of this gear will generally be restricted to heavy pulling out of deep mud, sand or snow, and to provide power for a steep grade. The (FIRST) button should also be pushed when descending a steep grade. In this gear the transmission will not up-shift to any other gear.

NEVER EXCEED 40 M.P.H. WHEN THE (FIRST) BUTTON IS ENGAGED.

The higher gear ratio (intermediate) may be obtained by pressing the (SECOND) button. This range may also be used to "engine brake" when descending moderately steep grades
