Doing Grassroots Organisierung Communities Entwicklungszusammenarbeit:

Doing Grassroots Andreas Wagner, 2015-07-14 Andreas Wagner untersucht in dieser ethnografischen Studie anhand von Kooperationen eines internationalen Kinderhilfswerkes mit Gemeindegruppen in Sambia, Äthiopien, Kenia, Uganda und Mosambik, wie durch die Zusammenarbeit international agierender NGOs mit lokalen Communities Graswurzelorganisationen geschaffen werden, um der problematischen Lebenssituation vulnerabler Kinder zu begegnen. Diese Community Based Organisations werden durch Interaktionen und komplexe Aushandlungsprozesse hergestellt und als anschlussfähige lokale Partner für Geberorganisationen der Entwicklungszusammenarbeit organisiert, um dadurch eine nachhaltige Wirkung der Projekte zu erreichen. Zur Beschreibung dieses Prozesses der gemeinsamen Herstellung von Graswurzelprojekten wird das Konzept des doing grassroots eingeführt.

Structuring People Eva Marie Schindler, 2021-12-09 Participation has become an orthodoxy in the field of development, an essential element of projects and programmes. This book analyses participation in development interventions as an institutionalised expectation, a rationalized myth, and examines how organisations on different levels of government process it. At least two different objectives of participation are appropriate and legitimate for international organisations in the field: the empowerment of local beneficiaries and the achievement of programme goals. Both integrate participatory forums into the organisational logic of development interventions. Local administrations react to the institutionalised expectation with means-ends decoupling, where participatory forums are implemented superficially but de facto remain marginalised in local administrative processes and activities. The book furthermore provides a thick description of the organisationality of participation in development interventions. Participatory forums are shown to be a form of partial organisation. They establish an order in the relationship between administrations and citizens through the introduction of rules and the creation of a defined membership. At the same time, this order is found to be fragile and subject to criticism and negotiation.

Composing a New Song Hope Bagyendera Chigudu, 2002 Independent African countries have faced many challenges on the road to economic and social development. The heritage of colonialism has weighed heavily on their shoulders, and the promises of post colonialism have not always been fulfilled. The nature and trajectory of the development project is determined in large part by governments. Where they have been limited in or neglectful of their capacity to improve the lives of their people, non government organizations have been quick to respond. Composing a New Song comprises portraits of five such NGOs from Nigeria, Tanzania, Uganda, Zambia and Zimbabwe. Each was spurred by a moral concern for those sectors of society that were marginalized or ignored completely by the march of mainstream development, but each has chosen its own route, its own tactics and its own methods. These stories, told by founders and senior managers of the organizations, offer a rare insight into personal motivations, social reactions and political choices, indeed the real world of development, one that is too often glossed over by more orthodox texts.
