Marine Painting Manual A.M. Berendsen, 2013-06-29 It is a pleasure to introduce to the reader this new Marine Painting Manual The previous edition entitled Ship Painting Manual was published in 1975 Since then a number of new technological developments have taken place Also standards with regard to safety health and the environment have become more severe These changes called for a thoroughly revised and updated Marine Painting Manual I believe that the editor should be congratulated on having completed this task in such a commendable way I hope that this new volume will find as enthusiastic a response among those concerned with maritime affairs as its predecessor did some fifteen years ago Dr Jan Raat Director Netherlands Foundation for the Co ordination of Maritime Research The Marine Painting Manual sets out to provide clear guidelines for the effective protection of marine structures ocean going vessels and offshore platforms Painting is a high cost procedure and is a crucial factor in determining the life and subsequent maintenance of steel structures in the marine environment The book is a follow up to the Ship Painting Manual published in 1975 It has been completely revised partly rewritten and an additional chapter on offshore structures included The present volume contains detailed and up to date information on all aspects of the preparation and painting for the protection of marine structures Paint Manual United States. Watkins, 1969 External Corrosion and Corrosion Control of Buried Water Mains Andrew E. Romer, 2004 Water utilities often do not know the specific cause of external corrosion observed on their water mains and consequently the chosen preventative measure may not work effectively Historically these choices are based on data from other industries e g gas and oil and may not be suitable for the water industry Corrosion of metallic pipes can be caused by a variety of mechanisms each of which requires a different solution Determining which corrosion mechanism is at work is not a simple matter because the resulting pipe damage looks similar for all of them The failure to properly identify corrosion sources may produce prevention systems that are ineffective or do not last For example it is not effective to install an anode bag on a main that has a bacteriological corrosion problem Similarly an anode bag installed to reduce corrosion caused by a stray impressed current would be quickly used up and would provide only short term protection Much recent research on corrosion has focused on internal corrosion primarily related to water quality issues such as lead and copper control and red water This project will examine external corrosion which affects the structural integrity of the pipe and makes it vulnerable to leaks and breakage After identifying the causes of external corrosion the study will find economical solutions for each type of corrosion and verify them through field trials Bureau of Ships Journal United States.
