Where Do We Come From? Jan Klein, Naoyuki Takahata, 2013-03-09 From the moment it first began to contemplate the world three questions have occupied the human mind Where do we come from What are we Where are we going Artists notably Paul Gauguin religious thinkers philosophers and most recently scientists have all searched for answers Here the authors describe how scientists decipher human origin from the record encrypted in the DNA and protein molecules After explaining the nature of descent and the methods available for studying genealogical relationships they summarize the information revealed by the molecular archives about the Tree of Life and our location on one of its branches The knowledge thus gleaned allows them to draw conclusions about our identity our place in the living world our future and the ethical implications of the changed perspective

Chemical Communication William C. Agosta, 1992-04-15 A wounded minnow attempts to rejoin its school and the other minnows scatter in panic a single beetle finds a pine tree to its liking and soon thousands of beetles swarm that tree and others in the vicinity a male Syrian golden hamster is drawn along an invisible trail to a burrow where a female hamster awaits him ready for mating These animals are responding to received communications but as in countless other occurrences in nature the language is not auditory or visual it is chemical Unlike humans who gather information largely through sight and sound most living creatures rely heavily on chemical compounds from other organisms for their basic knowledge of the world Among the various types of these compounds are the chemical signals exchanged between members of the same species that govern social interactions crucial to survival These signals are called pheromones from the Greek pherein to carry and hormon exciting and they are used to send warnings establish territorial boundaries provoke aggression control sexual behavior and locate food In this volume organic chemist William C Agosta explores the chemistry of pheromones and the mechanisms by which they orchestrate animal behavior Professor Agosta details the intricate process of identifying pheromones and determining the active components within these sometimes highly complex mixtures He also demonstrates the value of this growing body of knowledge to our understanding of evolution ecology human behavior and agricultural production The result is a fascinating look at a research area that brings together investigators information technologies and procedures from the fields of biology chemistry and behavioral science Chemical Communication spans the entire spectrum of life from simple organisms such as water molds and brown algae to insects birds fish reptiles mammals and in a provocative final chapter human beings Along the way Dr Agosta provides dozens of captivating examples of pheromones in action certain male red sided garter snakes which increase their chances of mating successfully by impersonating a female thus distracting rivals or the bolas spiders which capture male moths by hitting them with an adhesive ball on a string after emitting a female moth pheromone that lures the males within range The book also includes important evidence that pheromones alter physiology as well as behavior For example young female mice reach maturity at an accelerated pace after constant exposure to adult male mice The Timing of Biological Clocks Arthur T. Winfree, 1987 Explores the many aspects of circadian rhythms from jet lag to biorhythms to forbidden phases of sleep when one cannot awaken spontaneously The Encyclopedia Americana, 1999 A thirty volume encyclopedia covering important world events while providing major new treatments of selected topics in various academic fields Creating the Twentieth Century Vaclav Smil, 2005-08-25 The period between 1867 and 1914 remains the greatest watershed in human history since the emergence of settled agricultural societies the time when an expansive civilization based on synergy of fuels science and technical innovation was born At its beginnings in the 1870s were dynamite the telephone photographic film and the first light bulbs Its peak decade the astonishing 1880s brought electricity generating plants electric motors steam turbines the gramophone cars aluminum production air filled rubber tires and prestressed concrete And its post 1900 period saw the first airplanes tractors radio signals and plastics neon lights and assembly line production This book is a systematic interdisciplinary account of the history of this outpouring of European and American intellect and of its truly epochal consequences It takes a close look at four fundamental classes of these epoch making innovations formation diffusion and standardization of electric systems invention and rapid adoption of internal
