Geschiedenis Der Nederlandsche Spoorwegen 1832-1938:

Geschiedenis der Nederlandsche spoorwegen 1832-1938 J. H. Jonckers Nieboer, 1938 Institutions in the Transport and Communications Industries Lena Andersson-Skog, Olle Krantz, 1999 Railways in the Netherlands A. J. Veenendaal, 2001 This book traces the origin growth decline and resurrection of the railway system of the Netherlands from its beginnings to privatization in the 1990s and places its history in the context of the political and socioeconomic development of the country At first the largely agrarian and mercantile Dutch society saw little use for such a novel system of transportation thanks to a highly developed system of roads and waterways However the success of early English railways did not go unnoticed and in 1834 a plan was developed for a railway from Amsterdam to the Prussian Ruhr area to replace the transportation system along the Rhine River Although this initial plan was finally abandoned other lines were opened in 1839 The technology was largely borrowed from England and Belgium but from the outset Dutch engineers played an important role in the development of the network Apart from a short lived state system the first railways were built and operated by private companies but when this did not result in an efficient network the state stepped in again in 1860 to bring coherence By 1900 the national network was complete but labor unrest escalated leading to the national strike of 1903 which reverberated for many years in the Dutch Parliament railroad board rooms and socialist political parties The exigencies of World War I increased the grip of the state on the railways which ultimately resulted in 1938 in the complete unification of the railways albeit under public ownership In the 1920s and 1930s competition from other forms of transportation resulted in a curtailing of services and the closing of unprofitable lines World War II devastated the Dutch railway system and necessitated an almost complete rebuilding In the postwar era population growth greater mobility pollution problems and lack of space for new highways led to an intensive use of existing railways and the construction of new lines to link new suburbs and airports with the existing network The privatization craze of the 1990s separated the ownership of the network from its operations but the final relationship has yet to be established The Strictures of Inheritance Jan Luiten van Zanden, Arthur van Riel, 2021-04-13 A major feat of research and synthesis this book presents the first comprehensive history of the Dutch economy in the nineteenth century an important but poorly understood piece of European economic history Based on a detailed reconstruction of extensive economic data the authors account for demise of the Dutch economy's golden age After showing how institutional factors combined to make the Dutch economy a victim of its own success the book traces its subsequent emergence as a modern industrial economy Between 1780 and 1914 the Netherlands went through a double transition Its economy which in the words of Adam Smith was approaching a stationary state in the eighteenth century entered a process of modern economic growth during the middle decades of the nineteenth At the same time the country's sociopolitical structure was undergoing radical transformation as the decentralized polity of the republic gave way to a unitary state As the authors show the dramatic transformation of the Dutch political structure was intertwined with equally radical changes in the institutional structure of the economy The outcome of this dual transition was a rapidly industrializing economy on one side and on the other the neocorporatist sociopolitical structure that would characterize the Netherlands in the twentieth century Analyzing both processes with a focus on institutional change this book argues that the economic and political development of the Netherlands can be understood only in tandem International Bibliography of Business History Francis Goodall,Terry Gourvish,Steven Tolliday,2013-12-16 The field of business history has changed and grown dramatically over the last few years There is less interest in the traditional company centred approach and more concern about the wider business context With the growth of multi national corporations in the 1980s international and inter firm comparisons have gained in importance In addition there has been a move towards improving links with mainstream economic financial and social history through techniques and outlook The International Bibliography of Business History brings all of the strands together and provides the user with a comprehensive guide to the literature in the field The Bibliography is a unique volume which covers the depth and breadth of research in business history This exhaustive volume has been compiled by a team of subject specialists from around the world under the editorship of three prestigious business historians Railroad History ,1995 Transportation and the State Hans Keman,Jaap J. Woldendorp,2020-10-30 This book analyses the role of the national state as organiser of its territory and governor of its infrastructure since it emerged in the 19th Century It presents a cross time analysis of eight emerging democratic states during the transport revolution focussing on railway systems The book explores how the intervention state regulated society in Europe and Australia since the Industrial Revolution The authors conclude that these state capacities are still governing the public domain also at the level of the EU -- Eene soort van dynastie van spoorwegbeambten P. W. N. M. Dehing,1989 Navigating Time and Space in Population Studies Myron P Gutmann,Glenn D Deane,Emily R Merchant,Kenneth M Sylvester,2011-02-10 Navigating Time and Space in Population Studies presents innovative approaches to long standing questions about the diffusion of population and demographic behavior across space and over time This collection utilizes newly available historical data along with spatially and temporally explicit analytical methods to evaluate and refine core demographic theories and to pose new questions about mortality and fertility transitions migration urbanization and social inequality It adds a spatial dimension to the analysis of temporal processes and a temporal element to spatial processes Chapters cover a broad range of geographical settings including the United States Europe Latin America and the Islamic world and span time periods from the eighteenth to twentieth century Contributors from a variety of disciplines reveal the complexity of factors involved in population processes that spread across space and unfold over time and demonstrate a rich set of tools with which to explore analyze and test the spatial and temporal dynamics of these phenomena The theories methods and substantive findings presented here provide new lenses through which to view time and space in population studies offering useful models and valuable insights to demographers and other social scientists exploring both historical and contemporary

Repertorium Der Verhandelingen en Bijdragen Betreffende de Geschiedenis Des Vaderlands, in Tijdschriften en Mengelwerken Tot Op 1939 Verschenen, Participation and the Quality of Environmental Decision Making F. Coenen, D. Huitema, Laurence J. O'Toole Jr., 2012-12-06 It is clear that our society must become a more sustainable one To that end we must change both our production and our consumption patterns Some argue that this implies the abolition of democratic processes and thus of citizens participation in environmental policy Others argue the opposite the only way to avoid impending environmental disaster is by engaging in common deliberation and contemplation Is participation then a negative force or not This volume is one of the first coordinated attempts to study the relationship between democratic participatory forms of decision making and the quality of environmental decisions The central question is how can the normatively desirable practice of participatory decision making be combined with an effective approach to environmental issues Guided by a theoretical introduction by the editors the 15 chapters deal with topics ranging from the scale of environmental problems local agenda 21 infrastructural decisions strategic planning to environmental policy in developing countries Three chapters are devoted to each of these broad themes Each presents either a theoretical or an empirical argument about the central research question shedding light on such issues as the measurement of decision quality participation techniques and the link between participation and decision quality drawing on experience gained in Europe North and South America Asia and Africa The introductions to the individual parts of the book have been collectively written by the contributors who represent a range of professional disciplines including political science public policy and planning
