Diversity and Aging Among Immigrant Seniors in Canada Douglas Durst, Michael MacLean, 2010-01-01. Historically, Canada has been a nation of immigrants with 16.20% of its citizens being foreign born. Most immigrant research addresses the issues of integration and adjustment of young and adult immigrants with little work on aging. There are numerous books on immigrants and books on aging, but there are few that have considered the topics of both diversity and aging. Diversity and Aging among Immigrant Seniors in Canada breaks from that tradition and offers an eclectic collection of original research from among Canada's leading researchers on aging and immigrants. Some researchers refer to this emerging field as Ethno gerontology. There are two interesting groups of immigrant seniors: those who entered Canada at over 65 years of age and those who aged in Canada. Most Canadians are surprised to learn that the senior population of seniors has a higher percentage of immigrants (19.6%) than the general population (13.7%). As Canadians age, the country's composition of immigrant seniors has also changed from mainly European to greater cultural and ethnic diversity from Africa and Asia. This cultural and ethnic diversity has social, health, economic, policy implications, and impacts on programs and services delivered to seniors. Diversity and Aging among Immigrant Seniors in Canada is divided into two main sections. In Part 1, the chapters explore general and universal issues such as national trends and demographics, theoretical orientations, issues of culture and legal dimensions, poverty and income, and end-of-life care. In Part 2, the chapters examine issues pertaining to specific ethnic groups. For example, there are chapters on the social well-being of Chinese immigrants, determinants of mental health for Iranian seniors, family dynamics for aging Haitian elders, and emerging issues for Punjabi families. Diversity and Aging among Immigrant Seniors in Canada offers both breadth and depth to the topic of aging among immigrants and is a must-read for social work and health care professionals, students in health and social services, policy and program planners, and families of aging immigrants. It is written in a language that crosses disciplines, shedding professional jargon, making it an informative and engaging read for professionals, researchers, and the general public.

Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics, Volume 32, 2012 Bert Hayslip, Jr., 2012-02-01. This collection is a timely and excellent contribution to the study of resilience and the field of gerontology. Anthropology and Aging Quarterly. This state-of-the-science, multidisciplinary Annual Review of Gerontology and Geriatrics provides a comprehensive examination of critical issues on resilience in a variety of life domains central to the well-being of older persons. It examines the role of resilience in determining adjustment and function in the domains of health, grief and bereavement, physical activity, and functioning, spirituality, work, retirement, intellectual/cognitive functioning, coping with life events, care giving, and mental health interventions. The first section of the book addresses such domains of resilience as immunological function, stress, and mood disorders, emotional and cognitive resilience, adjustment to cultural and environmental changes, and spirituality. Section two is concerned with practical applications of resilience A developmental family perspective is used to examine differences in adaptation to age related challenges The role of resilience in geriatric rehabilitation is discussed as is adaptive coping in regard to loss and trauma The text also explores resilience in regard to career management retirement and volunteerism considers resilience as a component of health in regard to public policy and examines exemplary public health programs and policies and the relationship of resilience to health care finance Also addressed is resilience in caregiving as a mutually beneficial process clinical interventions that enhance resilience and resilience from a lifespan developmental perspective Key Features Synthesizes the best current research in the field with direct practice implications Addresses resilience in regard to immunological function emotional and cognitive resilience and spirituality Explores the role of resilience in geriatric rehabilitation career management and retirement person environ fit and public health and policy Examines directions for future research and resilience oriented interventions
