Rumrill, Jr., Bryan G. Cook, Nathan A. Stevenson, 2020-02-05 The primary purpose of this book is to offer a broad based examination into the role of scientific inquiry in contemporary special education As with the first two editions which were published in 2001 and 2011 the goal is to provide a comprehensive overview of the philosophical ethical methodological and analytical fundamentals of social science and educational research Aspects of special education research that distinguish it from scientific inquiry in other fields of education and human services are specified. Foremost among these distinctions are the research beneficiaries: children with disabilities, their parents, the special educators, availability of federal funds for research and demonstration projects that seek to improve educational outcomes, and the historical philosophical and legislative bases for the profession of special education. This new edition represents a revision of more than 30 percent with over 250 new references. Each chapter is thoroughly updated with new developments in research topics, designs, and methods that have emerged over the past decade in the field of special education. This unique book is an excellent resource guide for graduate level students, practitioners, teachers in the field of special education, disability studies, early intervention, school psychology, and child and family services.

RESEARCH IN REHABILITATION COUNSELING Rumrill, Jr., Phillip D., Bellini, James L., 2017-09-25. RESEARCH IN REHABILITATION COUNSELING provides the basics that one would need to begin conducting a research investigation. It was written as a primary text for graduate level students and practitioners concerning the role of research in contemporary rehabilitation counseling. It is the authors' intent to provide a comprehensive overview of the philosophical, ethical, methodological, and analytic fundamentals of social science research as well as to specify aspects of rehabilitation research that distinguish it from scientific inquiry in other helping professions. It has been thoroughly revised to accurately reflect the variation and wealth of research methodologies used in contemporary rehabilitation counseling research. More than 300 new references have been added. Most of the research examples cited were published in peer-reviewed rehabilitation counseling journals over the past decade, and these examples represent the current status of research methods as well as the most relevant contemporary topic areas of research and scholarship in the field. Accordingly, it may be used both as a research textbook and as a general introduction to the current scholarship. Because this book was written as an introductory research methods textbook for graduate students in rehabilitation counseling, the authors focus much of the information contained herein on the role of readers as professional consumers of rehabilitation research. It will prove to be an invaluable resource for counselors, administrators, policymakers, educators, researchers, people with disabilities, and consumer advocates.

Work Worth Doing Brian T. McMahon, Linda R. Shaw, 2021-05-30. President Theodore Roosevelt once said, "Far and away the best prize that life offers is the chance to work hard at work worth doing." This quote is not only the source from which the title was borne, but also the philosophical approach toward TBI rehabilitation embraced by the 26 rehabilitation experts who wrote Work Worth Doing: Advances in Brain Injury Rehabilitation. This important and possibly controversial book of issues and methods addresses the full spectrum of vocational rehabilitation activities, independent living, treatment generalization, criteria for evaluating TBI rehabilitation facilities, family involvement, issues, and an entirely new perspective on the TBI rehabilitation industry are discussed.
