Uddin-Khan, 2015-03-13 The substandard education most American students receive isn't the fault of teachers As longtime educator Evelyn A Uddin Khan points out few parents and politicians know what actually goes on behind the closed doors of public schools Most teachers operate under exploitative conditions overseen by school administrators corrupt with power Unlike past eras where students once brought apples to their teachers most teachers can count on students to be bored and irresponsible and to make spurious claims to their rights when their asocial behavior is challenged in a classroom setting She shows how education standards have eroded amidst an atmosphere where grades are inflated curricula are diluted and ignorance is mass produced She shows how the once powerful teachers unions have become little more than voting machines how segregation is alive in NYC and how a death threat is taken in stride Many of the incidents and anecdotes are real life stories where the names of the participants have been changed in order to protect their identities Her informative challenging book is an attempt to set the record straight on the reputation of public school teachers who she feels have been unfairly maligned in the press and in current political debates

An Age of Accountability John L. Rury,2023-10-13 An Age of Accountability highlights the role of test based accountability as a policy framework in American education from 1970 to 2020 For more than half a century the quest to hold schools and educators accountable for academic achievement has relied almost exclusively on standardized assessment The theory of change embedded in almost all test based accountability programs held that assessment with stipulated consequences could lead to major improvements in schools This was accomplished politically by proclaiming lofty goals of attaining universal proficiency and closing achievement gaps which repeatedly failed to materialize But even after very clear disappointments no other policy framework has emerged to challenge its hegemony The American public today has little confidence in institutions to improve the quality of goods and services they provide especially in the public sector As a consequence many Americans continue to believe that accountability remains a vital necessity even if educators and policy scholars disagree
