Environmental Health James A. Listorti, Fadi M. Doumani, 2001-01-01 Environmental health remains at the periphery of sustainable development because it is inadequately defined and institutionally fragmented This publication aims to provide ways of addressing this multisectoral problem It is in three parts The first looks at harmonising sectoral priorities and shows that environmental health can target at least as much disease as the health sector The second part provides environmental health assessment guidelines The third part looks at the results of a pilot project to put theory into practice in Ghana

Health Impact Assessment Martin Birley, 2013-10-18 Health Impact Assessment HIA is primarily concerned with the future consequences of plans proposals and policies on the health of communities It is a rapidly growing complement to Environmental Impact Assessment increasingly mandated by national and international requirements Guidelines have been produced by many national and international organizations and it is being introduced in a number of undergraduate or postgraduate university curricula However there has been until now no broad based introductory text of international scope to the subject suitable for both these courses and for professional training The purpose of this book is to fill this gap and to introduce the subject of Health Impact Assessment using plain language in both general and specific contexts and with reference to both market and less developed economies As a result the reader should be able to describe what HIA can and cannot achieve identify the components of a successful HIA and participate in an assessment as a member of a team Examples are provided from a number of planning and development sectors including extractive industry water resource management and housing The reader whether student or professional need not be a health specialist although prior knowledge of some public or environmental health would be an advantage
