Potato City Sue Leaf, 2004 Catbirds and pocket gophers bur oaks and bull snakes bluestem grass and leopard frogs have populated the gently rolling prairies around Sue Leaf s Midwestern farming community for centuries A hundred years ago her town located forty five miles from the nearest city shipped thousands of tons of potato starch across the country stiffening the collars of working men Today it has become one of America's fast growing suburbs As naturalist and biologist Sue Leaf watched her rural surroundings become a magnet for developers she became curious about the history of the land Before the freeway and the housing developments before the farmers cultivated the fertile soil what plants and animals called this place home To her delight Leaf discovered the oak savannah a park like ecosystem that supports abundant wildlife and soothes the human psyche with its quiet open spaces As she looked more closely she found remnants of the savannah in her own yard in the trees lining her quiet street and in nearby preserved patches of prairie In lyrical essays Leaf traces the natural history of her community offering rich details about the people who built this area about its once prosperous farms and about the oak trees and wildflowers and prairie animals native to this part of the country By examining remnants of the past still visible in a place deeply affected by sprawl Leaf reveals how to slow down look carefully and untangle the jumble of unnoticed clues that can enrich our daily lives
