Abstract

During the course of the experiment, people identified and remembered words that they saw, as well as words that were related to the words they saw. For example, they saw the word "apple" and then the word "fruit". They also saw the word "fruit" and then the word "apple". The results showed that people were better at remembering words that they saw than words that they heard. This suggests that visual information is processed more quickly and accurately than auditory information.
