

Chemical Reactions Student Laboratory Kit

Introduction

There are millions of chemical reactions occurring around us every every second of every day. Chemical reactions are involved in the biological world, weathering, geology, chemistry, food, drugs, and transportation systems that are being tested every day. While it is important to know what is going on, and significant experiments are done in the laboratory, students may not realize the reactions that are occurring in a chemical reaction, and the accompanying energy changes. The reactions occurring in this kit are:
