Tense Future Paul K. Saint-Amour, 2015-03-02 We know that trauma can leave syndromes in its wake But can the anticipation of violence be a form of violence as well Tense Future argues that it can that twentieth century war technologies and practices particularly the aerial bombing of population centers introduced non combatants to a coercive and traumatizing expectation During wartime civilians braced for the next raid during peacetime they braced for the next war The pre traumatic stress they experienced permeates the century's public debates and cultural works In a series of groundbreaking readings Saint Amour illustrates how air war prophets theorized the wounding power of anticipation how archive theory changed course in war's shadow and how speculative fiction conjured visions of a civilizational collapse that would end literacy itself And in this book's central chapters he shows us how Ford Madox Ford Robert Musil James Joyce Virginia Woolf and other interwar modernist writers faced the memory of one war and the prospect of another some by pitting their fictions' encyclopedic scale and formal turbulence against total war others by conceding war's inevitability while refusing to long for a politically regressive peace Total war a conflict that exempts no one disregarding any difference between soldier and civilian Tense Future forever alters our understanding of the concept of total war by tracing its emergence during the First World War its incubation in air power theory between the wars and above all its profound partiality For total war during most of the twentieth century meant conflict between imperial nation states it did not include the violence those states routinely visited on colonial subjects during peacetime Tacking back and forth between metropole and colony between world war and police action Saint Amour describes the interwar refashioning of a world system of violence production one that remains largely intact in our own moment of perpetual interwar

Women's Diaries as Narrative in the Nineteenth-century Novel Catherine Delafield, 2009-01-01 Using private diary writing as her model Catherine Delafield investigates the cultural significance of nineteenth century women's writing and reading practices Examining historical and fictional diaries by authors such as Frances Burney Elizabeth Gaskell Anne Bront Wilkie Collins and Bram Stoker Delafield reveals the ideological discrepancy between the private diary and its performance in the role of narrator offering fresh insights into domesticity authorship and the diary as a feminine form and model for narrative

The Million Year Picnic Will Elder, Al Feldstein, 2017-01-11 This collection includes all 15 of Elder's humorous Panic stories The Night Before Christmas got the first issue banned in the entire state of Massachusetts all seven of his science fiction tales from the pages of Weird Science and Weird Fantasy including two Ray Bradbury adaptations The King of the Grey Spaces and The Million Year Picnic and a special horror story that hasn't been seen since its original publication more than 60 years ago "We're All Infected" Dawn Keetley, 2014-02-12 This edited collection brings together an introduction and 13 original scholarly essays on AMC's The Walking Dead. The essays in the first section address the pervasive bloodletting of the series. What are the consequences of the series' unremitting violence? Essays explore violence committed in self-defense, racist violence, mass lawlessness, the violence of law enforcement, the violence of mourning, and the violence of history. The essays in the second section explore an equally urgent question: What does it mean to be human? Several argue that notions of the human must acknowledge the centrality of the body, the fact that we share a blind corporeality with the zombie. Others address how the human is closely aligned with language and time, the disappearance of which are represented by the aphasic, timeless zombie. Underlying each essay are the game-changing words of The Walking Dead's protagonist Rick Grimes to the other survivors: "We're all infected. The violence of the zombie is also our violence; their blind drives are also ours." The human characters of The Walking Dead may try to define themselves against the zombies, but in the end, their bodies harbor the zombie virus; they are the walking dead. Ambitious and interdisciplinary, Moscow Vanguard Art 1922-1992 tells the story of generations of artists who resisted Soviet dictates on aesthetics, spanning the Russian avant-garde, socialist realism, and Soviet postwar art in one volume. Drawing on art history, criticism, and political theory, Margarita Tupitsyn unites these three epochs, mapping their differences and commonalities, ultimately reconnecting the postwar vanguard with the historical avant-garde. With a focus on Moscow artists, the book chronicles how this milieu achieved institutional and financial independence and reflects on the theoretical and visual models it generated in various media, including painting, photography, conceptual performance, and installation art. Generously illustrated, this ground-breaking volume, published in the year that marks the centennial of the October Revolution, demonstrates that regardless of political repression, the spirit of artistic experiment never ceased to exist in the Soviet Union.
