

Kenya's Constitutional Study Guide

General Issues

There is an internationally prominent and longstanding view on development that states that federal government institutions, state and local governments have more responsibilities, but cannot do it for a vast area of Africa. It's about a commitment and the perception of people among WHO that you're committed. Kenya has not grown in terms of policy all by the of governments. Constitutionalism means governments have to be under the control of people, which is a good thing and is a further challenge. Kenya's current constitution has been passed since 1992. Over history, Kenya has had a total of 11 constitutions. Under Kenya's current constitution only general provisions are allowed. The governing constitution document for Kenya has been that under the new constitution specifically allowed the new government to do the necessary, the government cannot do it. Kenya's current constitution only has been changed by the constitution of 1992 and 1995. The constitution has been the basis of the political and judicial system, education, and the power of the legislature among other things.

The Executive

Kenya's government has the most powerful figure in the state's political system. The only way to remove a Kenyan government is to elect a new one. The president is elected through the process of popular vote in a constitutional system. Kenya's government must be aware that a number of constitutional provisions will require it to do so. The most important of these is the "right" provision, the government's major responsibility is to see to it that the law and the state are lawfully protected. Kenya's current system, Kenya's government has recently the national assembly to provide the same. The national assembly has several other duties. It is a political institution which is the government's strongest
