Donogoo Tonka Or The Miracles Of Science A Cinematographic Tale Forum Project Publications:

Donogoo-Tonka or the Miracles of Science Jules Romain, 2012-11-28 Donogoo Tonka or the Miracles of Science A Cinematographic Tale is a mock film scenario written by the French novelist Jules Romain. It was first published in book form in 1920 and has never been translated into English. The satirical plot concerns a famous geographer whose academic career is about to be derailed by the revelation that he has invented a city in South America. Through a hilarious sequence of events, a suicidal young man finds a new mission in life by undertaking to found the fictional city, thereby redeeming the error and reputation of the absentminded professor.

Donogoo Tonka Or the Miracles of Science Jules Romain, 2009-02-04 A highly original contribution to avant garde poetics, beautifully translated by Brian Evenson, the novel makes innovative use of boxed intertitles, a graphic device that influenced period writers and filmmakers. Joan Ockman's afterword, accompanied by more than two dozen illustrations, places Donogoo Tonka into a rich historical context, delving into questions of urban geography, the early relations between literature and cinema, and Romain's forgotten philosophy of unanimism.

BOOK JACKET The Modernist Screenplay Alexandra Ksenofontova, 2020-10-02 The Modernist Screenplay explores the film screenplay as a genre of modernist literature. It connects the history of screenwriting for silent film to the history of literary modernism in France, Germany, and Russia. At the same time, the book considers how the screenplay responded to the modernist crisis of reason, confronted mimetic representation, and sought to overcome the modernist mistrust of language with the help of rhythm. From the silent film projects of Bertolt Brecht to the screenwriting of Sergei Eisenstein and the poetic scripts of the surrealists, The Modernist Screenplay offers a new angle on the relationship between film and literature. Based on the example of modernist screenwriting, the book proposes a pluralistic approach to screenplays, an approach that sees film scripts both as texts embedded in film production and as literary works in their own right. As a result, the sheer variety of different and experimental ways to tell stories in screenplays comes to light. The Modernist Screenplay explores how the earliest kind of experimental screenplays, the modernist screenplays, challenged normative ideas about the nature of filmmaking, the nature of literary writing, and the borders between the two.

Léger Christian Derouet, Maria Gough, Spyros Papapetros, Jennifer Wild, 2013 An insightful look at the dynamic relationship between modern art and modern urban life in 1920s Paris through the lens of Fernand Léger's masterpiece The City. With his landmark 1919 painting The City, Fernand Léger (1881-1955) inaugurated a vitally experimental decade during which he and others redefined the practice of painting in confrontation with the forms of cultural production that were central to urban life, ranging from graphic and advertising design to theater, dance, film, and architecture. This catalogue casts new light on the painting, reproducing all of its studies together for the first time. The avant garde use of print media and Léger's fascination with cinema and architecture are contextualized within a network of international avant gardes, including Blaise Cendrars, Le Corbusier, Jean Epstein, Piet Mondrian, Amédée Ozenfant, Francis Picabia, and Theo van Doesburg, in relation to Léger. Featuring nearly 250 images of paintings.

architectural designs models posters set designs and film stills and an anthology of relevant historical texts not previously published in English this handsome volume conveys the spirit of experimentation of the 1920s Scholars in the fields of art architecture and film history offer a deeper understanding of the relationship between art and the modern urban experience that defined this significant chapter in the history of modern art Published in association with the Philadelphia Museum of Art Exhibition Schedule Philadelphia Museum of Art 10 14 13 01 05 14
