Doris An Anthology Zines:

Doris Cindy Crabb, 2005 Perzine about love grandparents abortion menstrual extraction being in jail and camping

Doris Cindy Crabb, 2007* Cindy writes her zine Doris like she is figuring out the human condition She makes writing about the simplest and most common things playing music childhood cooking or sex resonate with universal understanding She helps us make sense of more complex things like the satisfaction from doing useful work natural curiosity the ability to use logic gender dynamics introspection the need for challenge and change combating depression and creating art and literature She explores more difficult subjects like abortion rape sexual harassment and dealing with the death of family in a context that is enlightening and personal feeling like a close friend opening up to you What's most impressive though is that she relates these things throughout her zines with seamless beauty Page 4 of cover Girl Zines Alison

Piepmeyer, 2009-11-18 Stroll through any public park in Brooklyn on a weekday afternoon and you will see black women with white children at every turn Many of these women are of Caribbean descent and they have long been a crucial component of New York's economy providing childcare for white middle and upper middleclass families Raising Brooklyn offers an in depth look at the daily lives of these childcare providers examining the important roles they play in the families whose children they help to raise Tamara Mose Brown spent three years immersed in these Brooklyn communities in public parks public libraries and living as a fellow resident among their employers and her intimate tour of the public spaces of gentrified Brooklyn deepens our understanding of how these women use their collective lives to combat the isolation felt during the workday as a domestic worker Though at first glance these childcare providers appear isolated and exploited and this is the case for many Mose Brown shows that their daily interactions in the social spaces they create allow their collective lives and cultural identities to flourish Raising Brooklyn demonstrates how these daily interactions form a continuous expression of cultural preservation as a weapon against difficult working conditions examining how this process unfolds through the use of cell phones food sharing and informal economic systems Ultimately Raising Brooklyn places the organization of domestic workers within the framework of a social justice movement creating a dialogue between workers who don't believe their exploitative work conditions will change and an organization whose members believe change can come about through public displays of solidarity

The Ballerina and the Bull Johanna Isaacson, 2016-06-07 Our moment has seen the resurgence of an anarchist sensibility from the uprisings in Seattle in 1999 to the Occupy movement of 2011 Against the vacuity and drift of financialized capitalism proclaiming there is no alternative these insurgent movements have insisted that an alternative is possible In The Ballerina and the Bull Johanna Isaacson explores the occult history of US punk hardcore queercore and riot grrrl DIY culture and alternative subcultures to trace a new politics of expressive negation that both contests the present order and gives us a sense of the impasses of politics in an age of depoliticization Expressive negation registers the contradictory politics at the heart of these projects the desire for negation that must be positively expressed Drawing on first hand experience interviews and discussion of the ludic spatial and sexual politics of anarchist subcultures Isaacson maps an underground utopian politics of style and develops a radically new history of the present moment Support Cindy Crabb, C. Road, 2006-03 This is a zine about supporting people who have been sexually abused Doris Cindy Crabb, 1999
