Critical Thinking for Helping Professionals Eileen Gambrill, Leonard Gibbs, 2017-04-25 Critical thinking values skills and knowledge are integral to evidence based practice in the helping professions Inflated claims of knowledge both in the media as well as in the peer reviewed literature show critical thinking to be ever more important to decrease the influence of marketing in the guise of scholarship Practitioners must be able and willing to think critically about decisions that affect clients lives This requires minimizing the influence of cognitive and affective biases such as hindsight bias and avoiding misleading framing of problems that may harm clients but contribute to the profit of involved industries e.g. ignoring environmental sources of distress and focusing on client characteristics This book continues to focus on engaging students as active participants in exercises designed to hone their critical thinking skills drawing on related research and theory in a variety of related areas including judgement and decision making Exercises are included to help students enhance their skills in the process of evidence based practice including posing clear relevant questions and locating and critically appraising related research This fourth edition of Critical Thinking for Helping Professionals is for students of Children , Agency and Joint Attention Janet Metcalfe, Herbert S. Terrace, 2013-07-29 Human infants do not seem to be born with concepts of self or joint attention One basic goal of Agency and Joint Attention is to unravel how these abilities originate One approach that has received a lot of recent attention is social Some argue that by virtue of an infant s intense eye gaze with her mother she is able by the age of four months to establish a relationship with her mother that differentiates between me and you At about twelve months the infant acquires the non verbal ability to share attention with her mother or other caregivers Although the concepts of self and joint attention are nonverbal and uniquely human the question remains how do we establish metacognitive control of these abilities A tangential question is whether nonhuman animals develop abilities that are analogous to self and joint attention Much of this volume is devoted to the development of metacognition of self and joint attention in experiments on the origin of consciousness knowing oneself social referencing joint action the neurological basis of joint attention the role of joint action mirror neurons phenomenology and cues for agency
