The Ionian Islands in the Bronze Age and Early Iron Age Christina Souyoudzoglou-Haywood, 2025-08-05 The central Ionian Islands occupy a special geographical position in the eastern Mediterranean On the one hand they face and are in close proximity to the western Greek mainland and on the other they are connected with the western Balkans and the central Mediterranean through the Ionian and Adriatic seas Although with the exception of Corfu they were integrated in the Aegean cultural sphere of influence throughout the Bronze Age and Early Iron Age their marginal position and insularity also contributed to the formation of particular sociocultural identities individually and as a group On occasions these conditions also made them highly desirable as spaces for wide ranging maritime based interactions and inter cultural exchanges Culturally the islands remained above all a part of the western periphery of the Aegean world pulsing to its major changes and upheavals In the twenty years since the first edition of The Ionian Islands in the Bronze Age and Early Iron Age came out there has been a significant surge of interest in peripheries and their role in the construction of cultural and historical narratives about Greece over the centuries Yet the Ionian Islands have by and large been left behind in these discussions This fully revised second edition of the book incorporates all the recent discoveries and studies as well as updating a large part of the earlier evidence and aims to bring the islands back to the centre of debates and showcase their relevance The Archaeology of Animal Bones Terence Patrick O'Connor, Terry O'Connor (Archaeologist), 2000 The author provides a focused overview of the field emphasizing how bones are used to study past human animal interactions Archeological Research Series , 1951 The Physical Measurement of Bone C.M. The Stonehenge Environs Project Julian Richards, 2014-04-15 This report summarises the results of a programme of archaeological investigation carried out between 1980 and 1984 in the immediate vicinity of Stonehenge Whilst the ceremonial and ritual aspects of this landscape had been extensively studied in the past efforts to trace and analyse the character of prehistoric settlement in the area had not been thoroughly pursued The programme's main objective therefore was to identify prehistoric settlements in the area This it was hoped would lead to strategies for their preservation and management Surface collection of finds from a wide area first pinpointed the concentration of prehistoric material and identified areas for more intensive survey both by further fieldwalking and by small scale excavation The project demonstrated that there are traces of considerable Neolithic and Bronze Age domestic and industrial settlement and other activities to add to the framework of funerary and ceremonial monuments which characterise the Stonehenge area The concept of this as a landscape reserved solely for ritual is therefore no longer tenable
