Creative Ideas For Teaching The Novel Holes

Dan Davies, Deb McGregor

Creative Ideas For Teaching The Novel Holes:

Creative Ideas for Catechists Ruth Ann Rost, 1997-08 Rost takes us into the delightful dimension of creative catechetics with its powerful impact on children's faith learning. She first leads us in an exploration of our own creativity, our sense of prayer and our own sense of discipleship. She then suggests ways to enliven the gathering space using the children's five senses to help open them to these rich faith experiences. She offers approaches to the critical factors in preparation, presentation and procedure that make for successful empowerment of the child's faith learning. She also includes scores of practical ideas for involving primary and middle grade children in making prayer, helping them express their unity with God through prayer. Finally, she discusses the many resources essential to our own spiritual formation which must go hand in hand with that of unfolding a vibrant faith life in children. An excellent resource to inspire, encourage and sensibly guide catechetical ministry as it is meant to be: joy-filled, revitalizing and life impacting. Teaching the 3 Cs:

Great Ideas for Teachers Bev Gundersen,1991

The Power of Picture Books in Teaching Math and Science Lynn Columbia,2017-05-12 This book s 50 plus lessons each based on a different picture book or story will help classroom teachers build a foundation for teaching math science and social studies concepts to their students Each lesson uses children s literature to make challenging abstract concepts relevant to children's lives inviting them to learn these concepts while responding to a story's illustrations, theme, characters, and plot. The lessons also demonstrate how teachers can use children's literature to meet national standards in math, science, and social studies. Chapters 1 through 5 set the stage for using picture books, discussing the effective, imaginative integration of literature into the classroom. Teachers will learn to create an environment that ensures that when children and books come together, the experience is enjoyable and thought-provoking. Chapters 6 through 9 provide individual lessons by grade level with detailed activities based on specific books.

Teaching Religious Education Creatively Sally Elton-Chalcraft, 2014-11-20 Teaching Religious Education Creatively offers a brand new approach for the primary classroom and is crammed full of innovative ideas for bringing the teaching of RE to life. It helps teachers understand what constitutes a healthy curriculum that will encourage children to appreciate and understand different belief systems. Perhaps most importantly, it also challenges teachers to understand RE as a transformatory subject that offers children the tools to be discerning, to work out their own beliefs, and answer puzzling questions. Underpinned by the latest research and theory and with contemporary cutting-edge practice at the forefront, expert authors emphasise creative thinking strategies and teaching creatively. Key topics explored include: What is creative teaching and learning? Why is it important to teach creatively and teach for creativity? What is Religious Education? Why is it important for children to learn about and from religion? How can you teach non-biased RE creatively as a discrete subject and integrate it with other curriculum areas? Teaching Religious Education Creatively is for all teachers who want to learn more about innovative teaching and learning in RE in order to improve understanding and enjoyment and transform their own as well as their pupils' lives.

Ethics and Children's Literature Claudia Mills, 2016-05-13 Exploring the ethical questions posed by in and about children's literature, this collection examines the way texts intended for children raise questions of value, depict the moral development of their characters, and call into attention shared moral presuppositions. The essays in Part I look at various past attempts at conveying moral messages to children and interrogate their underlying assumptions. What visions of childhood were conveyed by explicit attempts to cultivate specific virtues in children? What unstated cultural assumptions were expressed by growing resistance to didacticism? How should we prepare children to respond to racism in their books and in their society? Part II takes up the ethical orientations of various classic and contemporary texts, including prosaic ethics in the Hundred Acre Wood, moral discernment in Narnia, ethical recognition in the distant worlds traversed by L. Engle, and virtuous transgression in recent Anglo-American children's literature and in the emerging children's literature of 1960s Taiwan. Part III's essays engage in ethical criticism of arguably problematic messages about our relationship to nonhuman animals, about war, and about prejudice. The final section considers how we respond to children's literature with ethically focused essays exploring a range of ways in which child readers and adult authorities react to children's literature. Even as children's literature has evolved in opposition to its origins in didactic Sunday school tracts and moralizing fables, authors, parents, librarians and scholars remain sensitive to the values conveyed to children through the texts they choose to share with them
