indicators that they may use to assess suitability the Committee did not get compelling evidence that application search data is essential Nor was it presented with overwhelming evidence that making multiple application searches is a major source of direct consumer detriment although the number of consumers doing this seems likely to rise However the Committee was extremely concerned about the effect of the use of credit searches on market mechanisms since in principle the ability to shop around is not only an important means for consumers to assess the market but also provides a key discipline on providers During the course of the inquiry the Committee heard about some solutions which could reduce the adverse effects of the use of credit application search data in credit reference files it considers that any acceptable solution must strike an appropriate balance between minimising fraud and over borrowing and ensuring the market is subject to normal market disciplines It recommends that the OFT look at this
