Brooks,Murali M. Yallapu,2025-01-13 Cancer is a complex disease that can evade the immune system s natural defenses However recent advancements in immunotherapy have revolutionized cancer treatment by using the body s own immune system to fight cancer Monoclonal antibodies mAbs and immune checkpoint inhibitors are two types of immunotherapy that have shown promise in treating various types of cancer. Monoclonal antibodies are laboratory produced antibodies that are designed to recognize and target specific proteins on the surface of cancer cells. These antibodies can be used alone or in combination with other therapies such as chemotherapy or radiation. Monoclonal antibodies work by binding to cancer cells and blocking their ability to grow and divide or by marking them for destruction by the immune system. For example, trastuzumab (Herceptin) is a monoclonal antibody that targets HER2 positive breast cancer cells and can be used in combination with chemotherapy to improve survival rates.

The Immune Response to Therapeutic Antibodies Daniel T. Mytych, Michael Tovey, Arno J. Kromminga, 2025-02-25

Therapeutic antibodies have revolutionized the treatment of numerous serious diseases in particular chronic diseases with a complex physiopathology such as cancer, autoimmune and inflammatory disorders. Therapeutic antibodies are also used to treat acute diseases such as COVID-19. Although the use of therapeutic antibodies has led to considerable progress in the treatment of numerous diseases, such therapies are often associated with adverse events and loss of the therapeutic response due in part to an undesired immune response to the therapeutic agent.

Journal of the Boston Society of Medical Sciences, 1908 ICRDB Cancergram, 1986 Community Series in the Role of Angiogenesis and Immune Response in Tumor Microenvironment of Solid Tumor, volume II Xi Cheng, Ren Zhao, Xin Lu, 2023-12-13

This Research Topic is the second volume of the Community Series in the Role of Angiogenesis and Immune Response in Tumor Microenvironment of Solid Tumor. Please see Volume I here. The microenvironment of tumors is consisted of the tumor stroma, proliferating tumor cells, infiltrating inflammatory cells, blood vessels and various associated tissue cells. The pre-metastatic niche (PRN) is described as supportive and receptive which undergoes cellular and molecular changes to form the fertile soil or metastatic designated sites for metastatic tumor cell seed colonization. Thus the PRN supports promoting tumor metastasis and tumor settlement in distant organs. The infiltration of the immune cells and the formation of blood vessels from the pre-metastatic sites are critical for the tumor microenvironment. Typically the angiogenic factor is strongly associated with the inflammatory response during the development of tumors. Additionally the immunoeediting processes are essentially devoted to promoting angiogenesis and modulating the innate and specific immune responses.
