Cluster Genesis Pontus Braunerhjelm, Maryann P. Feldman, 2006-11-02 Clusters regional concentrations of related firms and organisations are a key element of economic growth and innovation This book discusses the case histories of well known clusters including the Hollywood motion picture cluster Silicon Valley and Boston and San Francisco biotech regions

Cluster Genesis ,2007      Emerging Clusters Dirk Fornahl, Sebastian Henn, Max-Peter Menzel, 2010-01-01 This book rigorously explores the critical initial stage of cluster emergence in which the seeds for further growth are sown Whether economic growth actually occurs however ultimately depends on various regional conditions and the processes in place The contributors offer a broad spectrum of conceptual perspectives and empirical case studies on the regional factors and policies required for economic growth They discuss the link between new clusters and established regional paths the generation of institutions and endogenous dynamics and the patterns of emergence and growth of successful clusters A number of important questions are addressed including How do opportunities and crises influence cluster emergence Is cluster emergence purely random or can it be planned How can emerging clusters be identified and their growth patterns measured How can regional policies support cluster emergence Filling a gap in the literature on the actual genesis of clusters this path breaking book will prove a fascinating read for academics focusing on economics geography entrepreneurship technological change and innovation and regional studies

Innovation Governance in an Open Economy Annika Rickne, Staffan Laestadius, Henry Etzkowitz, 2012 Modern innovation processes are to large extent geographically distributed where knowledge flows are more likely to be global and activities such as Research and Development and production can take place at a variety of locations around the world Hence geographical distances will or have perhaps already become less significant in today s society where knowledge generated in various parts of the world may be readily accessed Simultaneously there are strong spatial dimensions to knowledge generation and diffusion as well as      The New

Players in Life Science Innovation Tomasz Mroczkowski, 2011-07-07 The global center of gravity in life sciences innovation is rapidly shifting to emerging economies In The New Players in Life Science Innovation Tomasz Mroczkowski explains how China and other new economic powers are rapidly gaining leadership positions and thoroughly assesses the implications Mroczkowski discusses the sophisticated innovation strategies and reforms these nations have implemented approaches that don t rely on market forces alone and are achieving remarkable success Next he previews the emerging global bio economy in which life science discoveries will be applied pervasively in markets ranging from health to fuels As R D in the West becomes increasingly costly Mroczkowski introduces new options for partnering with new players in the field He thoroughly covers the globalization of clinical trials showing how it offers opportunities that go far beyond cost reduction and assessing the unique challenges it presents Offering examples from China to Dubai to India he carefully assesses the business models driving today s newest centers of innovation Readers will find up to date coverage of bioparks technology zones and emerging clusters and realistic assessments of global R D collaboration strategies such as those of Eli Lilly Merck Novartis and IBM With innovation driven industries increasingly dominating the global economy this book s insights are indispensable for every R D decision maker and investor

Agricultural Innovation Systems The World Bank,2012-02-21 Managing the ability of agriculture to meet rising global demand and to respond to the changes and opportunities will require good policy sustained investments and innovation not business as usual Investments in public Research and Development extension education and their links with one another have elicited high returns and pro poor growth but these investments alone will not elicit innovation at the pace or on the scale required by the intensifying and proliferating challenges confronting agriculture Experience indicates that aside from a strong capacity in Research and Development the ability to innovate is often related to collective action coordination the exchange of knowledge among diverse actors the incentives and resources available to form partnerships and develop businesses and conditions that make it possible for farmers or entrepreneurs to use the innovations While consensus is developing about what is meant by innovation and innovation system no detailed blueprint exists for making agricultural innovation happen at a given time in a given place for a given result The AIS approach that looks at these multiple conditions and relationships that promote innovation in agriculture has however moved from a concept to a sub discipline with principles of analysis and action AIS investments must be specific to the context responding to the stage of development in a particular country and agricultural sector especially the AIS This sourcebook contributes to identifying designing and implementing the investments approaches and complementary interventions that appear most likely to strengthen AIS and to promote agricultural innovation and equitable growth It emphasizes the lessons learned benefits and impacts implementation issues and prospects for replicating or expanding successful practices The information in this sourcebook derives from approaches that have been tested at different scales in different contexts It reflects the experiences and evolving understanding of numerous individuals and organizations concerned with agricultural innovation including the World Bank This information is targeted to the key operational staff in international and regional development agencies and national governments who design and implement lending projects and to the practitioners who design thematic programs and technical assistance packages The sourcebook can also be an important resource for the research community and nongovernmental organizations NGOs

The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation Philip McCann, Frank van Oort, John Goddard,2016-11-25 Smart specialisation is the new policy approach to the development of regional innovation systems across Europe and it involves fostering innovative and entrepreneurial initiatives which are well tailored to the local context. The different technologies, skills, profiles, business activities, institutions and sectors which reflect a region's economic strengths and potential are to be fostered and encouraged to diversify in ways which also exploit the region's linkages with broader global value chains. Yet the ideas contained in the smart specialisation agenda have until now been primarily conceptual in nature. The Empirical and Institutional Dimensions of Smart Specialisation draws together some of the leading regional economists and scientists in Europe to analyse how smart specialisation is working in practice. This book investigates different dimensions of the agenda as it is developing across parts of Europe from both quantitative and qualitative perspectives. The quantitative analysis examines the nature of the diversification processes undertaken by regions and the interplay between the chosen local regional development priorities and the wider global value chain impacts of these choices. Meanwhile the qualitative analysis examines the institutional opportunities and challenges facing policy makers and the key elements most likely to provide the underpinnings of a workable set of policy settings. The book is aimed both at academic researchers interested in the interface between economic geography and regional innovation systems as well as at policy makers making public policy decisions related to regional development at the local, city, regional or national levels.

Creating Knowledge Locations in Cities Willem van Winden, Luis de Carvalho, Erwin van Tuijl, Jeroen van Haaren, Leo van den Berg, 2013-06-19. Based on a clear and comprehensive literature review, this book contains an analysis of five knowledge locations in Europe and one in South Korea. The case studies in the book cover several European countries: Ireland, Finland, Germany, Spain, The Netherlands. The cases are well grounded in the different contexts that these national settings provide, which allows comparisons between them. Regional Development: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources, 2012-04-30. From domestic to international settings, aid and assistance to less developed areas has recently been bolstered by a boom in technological advances and new research. Regional Development: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications presents a vital compendium of research detailing the latest case studies, architectures, frameworks, methodologies and research on regional development. With over 100 chapters from authors from around the world, this three-volume collection presents the most sophisticated research and developments from the field relevant to researchers, academics and practitioners alike. In order to stay abreast of the latest research, this book affords a vital look into regional development research.

China as an Innovation Nation Yu Zhou, William Lazonick, Yifei Sun, 2016. This volume assesses China's transition to innovation nation status in terms of social conditions, industry characteristics and economic impacts over the past three decades, also providing insights into future developments. Defining innovation as the process that generates a higher quality, lower cost product than was previously available, the introductory chapter conceptualizes the theory of an innovation nation and the lessons from Japan and United States. It outlines the key governance, employment and investment institutions that China must build for such transition to occur and examines China's challenges and strategies to innovate in the era of global production systems. Two succeeding chapters explain the evolving roles of Chinese state in innovation and the new landscape of venture capital finance. The remaining chapters provide studies of major industries which contain analyses of the evolving roles of investment by government agencies and business interests in the process. Included in these studies are traditional industries such as mechanical engineering, railroads and automobiles, rapidly evolving and internationally highly integrated industries such as information and communication technology (ICT) and newly emerging sectors such as wind and solar energy. Written by leading academics in the field, studies in this volume reveal Chinese innovation as diverse across industries and enterprises and fluid over time. In each sector we observe continued co-evolution of state policy, market demand and technology development. The strategies and structures of individual companies and industrial ecosystems are changing rapidly. The sum total of the studies is a great step forward in our understanding of the industrial foundations of China's attempt to become an innovation nation.

Greedy Science Michael D. Gordin, W. Patrick McCray, 2025-02-18. On the transformative role of greed in global science and technology during the 1980s. In the 1980s a transformative era emerged where profit-driven motives and an entrepreneurial spirit dominated scientific research and technological innovation. This collection of essays edited by Michael D. Gordin and W. Patrick McCray examines how greed reshaped the global scientific community through the relentless pursuit of money, fame and celebrity. Profiting off science and technology was not a new phenomenon nor were the soaring ambitions of some of its most fervent advocates. However, the global currents of knowledge production in the 1980s saw major cultural and scientific shifts: the increasing frequency of university patenting, the rise of academic entrepreneurship and collaborations between industries and academia, for example. Greedy Science seeks to survey and understand the full range of these changes. Through insightful essays, contributors examine case studies ranging from the biotech boom driven by early oil firm investments to the speculative market strategies in personal computing and alternative energy. This period saw the rise of the celebrity status of scientists and raised questions about the moral complexities of scientific greed. The authors argue that greed was an ever-present and expansive trait of science during this time, encompassing a host of behaviors such as covetousness, acquisitiveness, rapaciousness and conspicuous consumption. Greedy Science provides a nuanced analysis of how market dynamics and the quest for personal gain profoundly influenced scientific advancements and public perception during a pivotal decade in science and technology.

Handbook of Research on Entrepreneurial Success and its Impact on Regional Development Carvalho, Luísa, 2015-11-24. The Oxford Handbook of Local Competitiveness David B. Audretsch, Albert N. Link, Mary Lindenstein Walshok, 2015. An analysis of what influences and shapes local competitiveness and what places can do to enhance their economic performance. Policy Learning and Policy Failure Claire A.

Dunlop, 2020-01-15. First published as a special issue of Policy Politics, this updated volume explores policy failures and the valuable opportunities for learning that they offer. Policy successes and failures offer important lessons for public officials but often they do not learn from these experiences The studies in this volume investigate this broken link The book defines policy learning and failure and organises the main studies in these fields along the key dimensions of processes products and analytical levels Drawing together a range of experts in the field the volume sketches a research agenda linking policy scholars with policy practice

City Competitiveness and Improving Urban Subsystems: Technologies and Applications Bulu, Melih, 2011-10-31 Cities are becoming the wealth producing centers of national economies Increasing the operational efficiency of the city will bring a competitive edge to the whole system Yet many city subsystems cannot work together creating significant problems and inefficiencies City Competitiveness and Improving Urban Subsystems Technologies and Applications uses information science perspectives to improve working subsystems in transportation sewage electricity water communication education health governance and infrastructure since their efficient and synchronized operation is vital for a competitive city This pioneering approach will interest researchers professionals and policymakers in urban economy regional planning and information science disciplines who wish to improve the competitiveness of their cities

Tapping the Riches of Science Roger L. Geiger, Creso M. Sá, 2008 This title reveals the ways that economic development has been incorporated into university commitments and makes a strong case for the long term promise of practical uses for academic research

The Elgar Companion to Innovation and Knowledge Creation Harald Bathelt, Patrick Cohendet, Sebastian Henn, Laurent Simon, 2017-11-24 This unique Companion provides a comprehensive overview and critical evaluation of existing conceptualizations and new developments in innovation research It draws on multiple perspectives of innovation knowledge and creativity from economics geography history management political science and sociology The Companion brings together leading scholars to reflect upon innovation as a concept Part I innovation and institutions Part II innovation and creativity Part III innovation networking and communities Part IV innovation in permanent spatial settings Part V innovation in temporary virtual and open settings Part VI innovation entrepreneurship and market making Part VII and the governance and management of innovation Part VIII

Reshaping Regional Policy Harry Ward Richardson, Chang-Hee Christine Bae, Sang-Chuel Choe, 2011-01-01 The book first examines some radical new directions in Korea's regional policies instigated by the newly established permanent Presidential Commission of Regional Development The existing nine provinces and seven Special Cities i.e. metropolitan areas will yield considerable power and budget authority to seven new mega regions Many of the ideas behind the new policies such as territorial cohesion regional innovation and regional competitiveness were inspired from abroad especially Europe There are also changes at the lower urban scale to modify Korea's traditional top down strategies Previous policies named balanced national development were targeted at undermining Seoul by redistributing activities including government to other parts of the country under the zero sum game assumption The new policies aim to benefit both the Capital Region and other mega regions under a win win assumption The book evaluates these approaches Original contributions from some of the field's foremost scholars including Sang Chul Choe Sir Peter Hall Andreas Faludi Michael Storper Takashi Onishi Maryann Feldman and Sam Ock Park identify priorities for territorial integration develop ideas for crossborder cooperation discuss EU policy and policies for overall regional competitiveness examine the construction of regional entrepreneurial advantage and consider fiscal policy and decision making Cooperation Networks and Economic Development Andrés Cárdenas O'Farrill, 2021-02-11 For most Western audiences Cuba is a touristic paradise stuck in time and virtually detached from world technology networks by the US embargo anything but a hub of industrial innovation and high value added biotechnology However a closer look reveals more subtle but equally powerful stories that challenge the homogenizing assumptions of conventional economics and open up scope for more sophisticated reflections on Cuban economy and industry From this kind of enquiry emerges the case of the internationally respected Cuban biotech industry as the most successful case of science and technology policy in the country's economic history The book takes an interdisciplinary approach exploring issues such as interdependency purpose and history as natural constituencies of the innovation process It also examines the dynamic and crucial role played by the state in the formation of innovative business enterprises This book will be of interest to academic researchers in the fields of innovation and economic development
