Thomas Hauser,2017-06-13 The true story behind Audre Lorde s 1975 poem Power a masterly gripping and true account of the tragedy of the early morning shooting of a child and the trial of a policeman for murder that followed Was it a case of mistaken identity or race hatred or both It happened on the morning of Saturday April 28 1973 in Queens New York at around 5 00 a m In the pre dawn dark ten year old Clifford Glover was walking with his stepfather Add Armstead toward the auto salvage yard where Armstead worked as they did most Saturdays Patrolman Thomas Shea and his partner Walter Scott drove by in an unmarked car The cops were on the lookout for a pair of armed robbers dressed similarly to Clifford Glover and Add Armstead and stopped to give chase The child and his stepfather who was carrying his wages from the day before ran afraid they were going to be robbed Shots were fired Armstead flagged down a passing patrol car not realizing that Clifford was lying on the ground mortally wounded the gun that killed him still in the hand of Patrolman Shea who would become the first New York City cop in fifty years to be charged with committing murder while on duty A policeman who shot down a ten year old in Queens stood over the boy with his cop shoes in childish blood and a voice said Die you little motherfucker and there are tapes to prove it from Power by Audre Lorde Library Bulletin Fitchburg Public Library,1896 Cultural, Autobiographical and Absent Memories of Orphanhood Delyth Edwards,2017-10-24 This book offers an empirically informed understanding of how cultural autobiographical and absent memories of orphanhood interact and interconnect or come into being in the re telling of a life story and construction of an identity The volume investigates how care experienced identities are embedded within personal social and cultural practices of remembering The book stems from research carried out into the life histories of twelve undervalued historical witnesses Roberts 2002 of orphanhood women who grew up in Nazareth House children's home in Belfast Northern Ireland during the 1940s 50s and 60s Several themes are covered including histories of care in Northern Ireland narratives and memories sociologies of home and self and identity The result is an impressive text that works to introduce readers to the complexity of memory for care experienced people and what this means for their life story and identity

Memories of a Clackmannan Lad 1947 - 1958 William Wood, 2024-03-28 A childhood experience from the 1940s post war infant years to the raging 1950s My mother told me that I had actually come into the world with a bang It happened during one very early morning in 1943 when German bombers were flying overhead and the spent rounds of anti aircraft bullets were clattering on the tiled roof above her Dad also said that he could hear bombs dropping somewhere between Edinburgh and Glasgow So it seems that I had come into the world with a bang A few years later I was to enter another experience the teenage years

Childhood Memories of a Victorian Era Pasquale De Marco, 2025-04-17 Childhood Memories of a Victorian Era is a unique and fascinating glimpse into the lives of children during one of the most transformative eras in history The Victorian era was a time of great change and progress and these changes had a profound impact on the way children were raised and educated In this book we will explore the many different aspects of Victorian childhood from the homes they lived in to the games they played We will also examine the importance of family and education in Victorian society and how these factors shaped the lives of young people One of the most striking things about Victorian childhood is the emphasis that was placed on family Children were expected to be obedient and respectful to their parents and they were taught the importance of duty and responsibility The family was seen as the bedrock of society and it was believed that children who were raised in a strong and loving family would grow up to be productive and responsible citizens Another important aspect of Victorian childhood was education Children from wealthy families were often sent to private schools where they received a classical education that included Latin Greek and mathematics Children from poorer families often attended public schools which provided a more basic education that focused on reading writing and arithmetic Despite the differences in their education all Victorian children were expected to learn the values of hard work and self reliance Children were taught that they should always strive to do their best and that they should never give up on their dreams This emphasis on hard work and determination helped to shape the Victorian era into a time of great progress and innovation The Victorian era was also a time of great change for children The Industrial Revolution led to the development of new technologies and industries which in turn created new opportunities for children to work and earn money Children from poor families often had to work long hours in factories or mines but they also had the opportunity to learn new skills and trades The Victorian era was a time of both great progress and great challenges for children However it was also a time of great hope and optimism Children were seen as the future of society and they were taught the values of hard work determination and self reliance These values helped to shape the Victorian era into a time of great progress and innovation and they continue to inspire children today If you are interested in learning more about Victorian childhood then this book is for you In this book you will find a wealth of information about the lives of Victorian children from the homes they lived in to the games they played You will also learn about the importance of family and education in Victorian society and how these factors shaped the lives of young people This book is a valuable resource for anyone who wants to learn more about the Victorian era and its impact on children If you like this book write a review on google books
