PSYCHOLOGY
FINAL EXAM STUDY GUIDE
2013
Chapter 1 Study Guide

1. What is psychology the study of? (p. 4)
The scientific study of behavior and mental processes
2. What are the four goals of psychology? (p. 4-5)
Description: What is happening?
Explanation: Why is it happening?
Prediction: When will it happen?
Control: How can it be changed?
3. _____ established the first psychology laboratory in Leipzig, Germany, in 1879. (p. 6)
Wundt
4. Wundt utilized objective introspection to study the contents of the mind. What is objective introspection? Give an example of what a person might be asked to do during objective introspection. (pp. 6-7)
It is the process of examining and measuring one's own thoughts and mental activities. An example of this would be holding a rock in your hand and tell the person conducting the experiment all the emotions and sensations from the rock.
5. Compare and contrast structuralism and functionalism. Who is the major historical figure associated with each of these perspectives? (pp. 7-8)
Structuralism: focus of the study is the structure of the mind (Titchener/Wundt)
Functionalism: focuses on how the mind allows people to adapt, live, work, and play (William James who was influenced by Darwin).
6. What is the scientific method? Describe each of the five steps of the scientific method. (p. 20)
It is a system of gathering data so that bias and error in measurement are reduced.
 - a) Perceiving the question
 - b) Forming a hypothesis
 - c) Testing the hypothesis
 - d) Drawing conclusions
 - e) Report your results
7. Be able to distinguish each of the descriptive research methods used in psychology, including naturalistic observation, laboratory observation, case studies, and surveys. (pp. 22-24)
Naturalistic Observation: Allows researchers to get a realistic picture of how behavior occurs. (Have to be careful with observer effect)
Laboratory Observation: gives the researcher more control.
Case Studies: Study of one individual in great detail.
Surveys: asking a series of questions
8. What is a correlation? What is the difference between a positive correlation and a negative correlation? (pp. 26-27)
It is a measure of the relationship between two or more variables.
Positive: the two variables increase in the same direction
Negative: the two variables have an inverse relationship
9. Explain why correlation does not prove causation. (p. 27)
Just because two variables are related to each other, researchers cannot assume that one of them causes the other one to occur.
10. _____ is the only research method that allows psychologists to determine the cause of a behavior. (p. 28)
Experiment
11. What is an experiment? (p. 28)
It is a deliberate manipulation of a variable to see if corresponding changes in behavior result, allowing the determination of cause-and-effect relationship.

Electricity Supply Systems of the Future Nikos Hatziaargyriou,Iony Patriota de Siqueira,2020-07-20 This book offers a vision of the future of electricity supply systems and CIGRE s views on the know how that will be needed to manage the transition toward them A variety of factors are driving a transition of electricity supply systems to new supply models in particular the increasing use of renewable sources environmental factors and developments in ICT technologies These factors suggest that there are two possible models for power network development and that those models are not necessarily exclusive 1 An increasing importance of large networks for bulk transmission capable of interconnecting load regions and large centralized renewable generation resources including offshore and of providing more interconnections between the various countries and energy markets 2 An emergence of clusters of small largely self contained distribution networks which include decentralized local generation energy storage and active customer participation intelligently managed so that they operate as active networks providing local active and reactive support The electricity supply systems of the future will likely include a combination of the above two models since additional bulk connections and active distribution networks are needed in order to reach ambitious environmental economic and security reliability targets This concise yet comprehensive reference resource on technological developments for future electrical systems has been written and reviewed by experts and the Chairs of the sixteen Study Committees that form the Technical Council of CIGRE
