Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks Alexander E. Farrell, Jill Professor Jäger, 2010-09-30 As environmental challenges grow larger in scale and implications it is increasingly important to apply the best scientific knowledge in the decisionmaking process Editors Farrell and Jäger present environmental assessments as the bridge between the expert knowledge of scientists and engineers on the one hand and decisionmakers on the other When done well assessments have a positive impact on public policy the strategic decisions of private firms and ultimately the quality of life for many people This book is the result of an international interdisciplinary research project to analyze past environmental assessments and understand how their design influenced their effectiveness in bringing scientific evidence and insight into the decisionmaking process The case studies in the book feature a wide range of regional and global risks including ozone depletion transboundary air pollution and climate change Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks offers several important contributions It provides a clear account of the choices faced in the design of environmental assessments and a clear description of the lessons learned from past assessments It illustrates why assessments are social processes not simply reports And while they identify no universal one size fits all design the authors find that to be effective environmental assessments must be viewed by those who produce and use them as being salient credible in their scientific support and legitimate or fair in design and execution World in Transition: Ways Towards Global Environmental Solutions German Advisory Council on Global change (WBGU),2012-12-06 At the first Conference of the Parties of the Climate Convention in Berlin in Spring 1995 it became evident once again To counteract anthropogenic climate changes individuals as well as societies have to change their way of thinking and behavior This accounts for other areas of global environmental change as well Global trends like soil degradation loss of biological diversity water scarcity and population growth show little or no sign of improvement In fact in most areas a rapid deterioration has taken place In its latest Report the German Advisory Council on Global Change describes Ways Towards Global Environmental Solutions Our Global Environment Anne
