

Table A. Introduction

Summary of the health resources for health economics research in the United States, including the number of researchers, the number of publications, and the number of citations.

1. Introduction to the Health Resources for Health Economics Research

The health resources for health economics research in the United States are divided into three main categories: the number of researchers, the number of publications, and the number of citations.

The number of researchers is the total number of individuals who are actively engaged in health economics research in the United States. This includes both academic and non-academic researchers, as well as those who are currently employed and those who are retired.

The number of publications is the total number of peer-reviewed articles, books, and book chapters that have been published in the field of health economics research in the United States. This includes both original research and review articles.

The number of citations is the total number of times that a publication has been cited by other researchers in the field of health economics research in the United States. This is a measure of the impact of a publication and is often used to rank researchers and publications.

The data for this table were obtained from the Health Resources for Health Economics Research database, which is a comprehensive database of health economics research in the United States.
