DIRECTIONS TO THE BEACH OF THE DEAD

"Reading this collection gave me the thrilling feeling I was trespassing on the intimate correspondence between a lover and a beloved—and filled me with envy. Ah, to be the receiver of such exquisite letters! Ah, to be the object of such exquisite love!"

Directions To The Beach Of The Dead Camino Del Sol:

Directions to the Beach of the Dead Richard Blanco, 2005 In his second book of narrative lyric poetry Richard Blanco explores the familiar unsettling journey for home and connections those anxious musings about other lives Should I live here Could I live here Whether the exotic I'm struck with Maltese fever I dream of buying a little Maltese farm or merely different Today home is a cottage with morning in the yawn of an open window he examines the restlessness that threatens from merely staying put the fear of too many places and too little time The words are redolent with his Cuban heritage Marina making mole sauce T a Ida bitter over the revolution missing the sisters who fled to Miami his father especially his hair once as black as the black of his oxfords Yet this is a volume for all who have longed for enveloping arms and words and for that sanctuary called home So much of my life spent like this suspended moving toward unknown places and names or returning to those I know corresponding with the paradox of crossing being nowhere yet here Blanco embraces juxtaposition There is the Cuban Blanco the American Richard the engineer by day the poet by heart the rhythms of Spanish the percussion of English the first world professional the immigrant the gay man the straight world There is the ennui behind the question why cannot I not just live where I live Too there is the precious fleeting relief when he can write I am for a moment not afraid of being no more than what I hear and see no more than this It is what we all hope for too Camino del Sol Rigoberto
