Discourse And Identity Studies In Interactional Sociolinguistics:

Discourse and Identity Anna De Fina, Deborah Schiffrin, Michael Bamberg, 2006-06-29 The relationship between language discourse and identity has always been a major area of sociolinguistic investigation In more recent times the field has been revolutionized as previous models which assumed our identities to be based on stable relationships between linguistic and social variables have been challenged by pioneering new approaches to the topic This volume brings together a team of leading experts to explore discourse in a range of social contexts By applying a variety of analytical tools and concepts the contributors show how we build images of ourselves through language how society moulds us into different categories and how we negotiate our membership of those categories Drawing on numerous interactional settings the workplace medical interviews education in a variety of genres narrative conversation interviews and amongst different communities immigrants patients adolescents teachers this revealing volume sheds light on how our social practices can help to shape our identities

Language and Social Identity John J. Gumperz, 1982 Throughout Western society there are now strong pressures for social and racial integration but in spite of these recent experience has shown that greater intergroup contact can actually reinforce social distinctions and ethnic stereotypes The studies collected here examine from a broad sociological perspective the sorts of face to face verbal exchange that are characteristic of industrial societies and the volume as a whole pointedly demonstrates the role played by communicative phenomena in establishing and reinforcing social identity The method of analysis that has been adopted enables the authors to reveal and examine a centrally important but hitherto little discussed conversational mechanism the subconscious processes of inference that result from situational factors social presuppositions and discourse conventions The theory of conversation and the method of analysis that inform the author's approach are discussed in the first two chapters and the case studies themselves examine interviews counselling sessions and similar formal exchanges involving contacts between a wide range of different speakers South Asians West Indians and native English speakers in Britain English natives and Chinese in South East Asia Afro Americans Asians and native English speakers in the United States and English and French speakers in Canada The volume will be of importance to linguists anthropologists psychologists and others with a professional interest in communication and its findings will have far reaching applications in industrial and community relations and in educational practice professional communication and bring into focus recent research This is the first handbook of language and professional communication to account for both pedagogic and practitioner perspectives and as such is an essential reference for postgraduate students and those researching and working in the areas of applied linguistics and professional communication

Identity Struggles Dorien Van De Mierop, Stephanie Schnurr, 2017-04-15 This collection provides a kaleidoscopic view of a range of identity struggles in the workplace context It features twenty two case studies that present an eclectic mix of workplaces in different socio cultural contexts They include among others household workers in Peru and Hong Kong female professionals in India and the UK social workers in Botswana and on Canadian reserves tourist guides in Europe and construction workers in New Zealand The volume addresses important questions on professional competence group membership sometimes competing expectations and identity boundaries The chapters establish that identity struggles are a reflection of issues of knowledge competing norms and attempts for social change European Identity Paul

Bayley, Geoffrey Williams, 2012-05-31 European Identity examines how Europe is represented linguistically in the news media of four EU countries France Italy Poland and the UK through the use of an electronic corpus built from newspapers and television news transcripts This multilingual comparable corpus is composed of the entire contents of four newspapers published in each country collected over two periods of three months and the transcriptions of two TV news broadcasts collected over two periods of two months The theoretical and methodological frameworks adopted include discourse analysis corpus linguistics and corpus assisted discourse analysis The individual chapters investigate various aspects of European identity as it is discursively construed in the news media of the different countries such as Europe as a political and geographic entity European Union institutions European history citizenship and immigration Based on a bottom up orientation and using both quantitative and qualitative methods all chapters but one use a comparative approach to the data juxtaposing the journalist representations of Europe in two or more languages The fundamental aim of the volume is to demonstrate how linguistic analysis and in particular the study of large amounts of linguistic data can make a vital contribution to the analysis of political and social issues Storyworld Possible Selves María-Ángeles

Martínez, 2018-03-05 This volume presents a multidisciplinary approach to narrative engagement within the paradigms of cognitive linguistics cognitive narratology and social psychology In their basic form storyworld possible selves or SPSs are blends resulting from the conceptual integration of an intra and an extra diegetic perspectivizer In written narratives SPS blends function as hybrid referents for a variety of inclusive and ambiguous linguistic expressions which are here explored from the standpoint of interactional cognitive linguistics as instances of SPS objectification and subjectification The model also draws on character construction and on the social psychology notions of self schemas and possible selves This allows an exploration of emotional responses to narratives not just in terms of empathy or sympathy towards fictional entities but also in terms of narrative ethics and of culturally determined and simultaneously idiosyncratic feelings of personal relevance and self transformation You Belong to Christ J. Brian Tucker, 2011-01-01 You Belong to Christ explores the way that the Apostle Paul sought to form the social identity of one of his most important Christ following communities It sheds light on the way various social identities function within the Pauline community and provides guidance concerning the social implications of the gospel Drawing from contemporary social identity theories as well as ancient source material J Brian Tucker describes the way 1 Corinthians 1 4 forms social identity in its readers so that what results is an alternative community with a distinct ethos in contrast to the Roman Empire and its imperial ideology This book contends that previous identities are not obliterated in Christ but maintain their fundamental significance and serve to further the Pauline mission by means of social integration Providing a comprehensive survey of Christian identity in Pauline studies as well as an interesting look into the material remains of Roman Corinth this volume provides a social scientific reading of 1 Corinthians 1 4 and argues that Paul's strategy was to form salient in Christ social identity in those to whom he wrote The Sociolinguistics of Identity Tope Omoniyi, Goodith White, 2006-11-02 Across the social and behavioural sciences there has been an increased interest in identity as a subject of inquiry Despite this there remain questions to which researchers need to find answers and challenges to be made to older paradigms of analysis in order to continue to push the frontiers of knowledge in this research domain Identity is a problematic concept inasmuch as we recognise it now as non fixed non rigid and always being co constructed by individuals of themselves or by people who share certain core values or perceive another group as having such values This volume re examines the analytical tools employed in the sociolinguistic research of identity in order to assess their efficiency establish the roles of language in the identity claims of specific communities of people and determine the place of identity in a variety of social contexts including work places and language classrooms It will be of interest to academics and students working in sociolinguistics applied linguistics and second language learning Telling Stories Deborah Schiffrin, Anna De Fina, Anastasia Nylund, 2010-03-09 Narratives are fundamental to our lives we dream plan complain endorse entertain teach learn and reminisce through telling stories They provide hopes enhance or mitigate disappointments challenge or support moral order and test out theories of the world at both personal and communal levels It is because of this deep embedding of narrative in everyday life that its study has become a wide research field including disciplines as diverse as linguistics literary theory folklore clinical psychology cognitive and developmental psychology anthropology sociology and history In Telling Stories leading scholars illustrate how narratives build bridges among language identity interaction society and culture and they investigate various settings such as therapeutic and medical encounters educational environments politics media marketing and public relations They analyze a variety of topics from the narrative construction of self and identity to the telling of stories in different media and the roles that small and big life stories play in everyday social interactions and institutions These new reflections on the theory and analysis of narrative offer the latest tools to researchers in the fields of discourse analysis and sociolinguistics The Routledge Handbook of Language, Gender, and Sexuality Jo Angouri, Judith

Baxter, 2021-04-26 Shortlisted for BAAL British Association for Applied Linguistics Book Prize 2022 The Routledge Handbook of Language Gender and Sexuality provides an accessible and authoritative overview of this dynamic and growing area of research. Covering cutting edge debates in eight parts it is designed as a series of mini edited collections enabling the reader and particularly the novice reader to discover new ways of approaching language gender and sexuality. With a distinctive focus both on methodologies and theoretical frameworks the Handbook includes 40 state of the art chapters from international authorities. Each chapter provides a concise and critical discussion of a methodological approach, an empirical study to model the approach, a discussion of real world applications and further reading. Each section also contains a chapter by leading scholars in that area positioning through their own work and chapters in their part. Current state of the art and future directions. This volume is key reading for all engaged in the study and research of language gender and sexuality within English language sociolinguistics, discourse studies, applied linguistics and gender studies. Violence, Otherness and Identity in Isaiah 63:1-6 Dominic S. Irudayaraj, 2017-04-20 Violence disturbs. And violent depictions when encountered in the biblical texts are all the more disconcerting. Isaiah 63:1-6 is an illustrative instance. The prophetic text presents the Arriving One in gory details trampling down people, pouring out their lifeblood v. 6. Further, the introductory note that the Arriving One is coming from Edom cf. v. 1 may suggest Israel's unrelenting animosity towards Edom. These two themes, the gory depiction and coming from Edom, are addressed in this book. Irudayaraj uses a social identity reading to show how Edom is consistently pictured as Israel's proximate and yet other ed entity. Approaching Edom as such thus helps situate the animosity within a larger prophetic vision of identity construction in the postexilic Third Isaian context. By adopting an iconographic reading of Isaiah 63:1-6 Irudayaraj shows how the prophetic portrayal of the Arriving One in descriptions where it is clear that the Arriving One is a marginalised identity correlates with the experiences of the stooped exiles cf. 51:14. He also demonstrates that the text leaves behind emphatic affirmations: mighty and splendidly robed cf. v. 1 alone cf. v. 3 by which the relegated voice of the divine reasserts itself. It is in this divine reassertion that the hope of the Isaian community's reclamation of its own identity rests. Multilinguals' Verbalisation and Perception of Emotions Pia Resnik, 2018-06-18 This book investigates the interplay of language, emotion and gender in a multilingual context and provides rich insights into the complexities of bilingualism and the field of emotion research as well as the intersection of both. Combining quantitative and qualitative analyses of data, the book examines multilinguals' verbalisation and perception of emotions in their first language and English, their second language L2. The research looks at crosslinguistic, intercultural and gender based differences, thereby highlighting the challenges faced by multilinguals in this context and the potential risks of miscommunication and misinterpretation. Results support the call for a change of paradigm towards a holistic approach to multilingualism and emotion research and highlight the similarities and differences in L2 users of English when expressing their emotions in the different languages. The book will appeal to anyone interested in research on emotions in the context of bi/multilingualism or second language acquisition as well as those teaching or learning multiple languages

Identity Construction and

Illness Narratives in Persons with Disabilities Charlotte Glinborg, Manuel L. de la Mata, 2020-08-31 This book

investigates how being diagnosed with various disabilities impacts on identity Once diagnosed with a disability there is a risk that this label can become the primary status both for the person diagnosed as well as for their family This reification of the diagnosis can be oppressive because it subjugates humanity in such a way that everything a person does can be interpreted as linked to their disability Drawing on narrative approaches to identity in psychology and social sciences the bio psycho social model and a holistic approach to disabilities the chapters in this book understand disability as constructed in discourse as negotiated among speaking subjects in social contexts and as emergent By doing so they amplify voices that may have otherwise remained silent and use storytelling as a way of communicating the participants realities to provide a more in depth understanding of their point of view This book will be of interest to all scholars and students of disability studies sociology medical humanities disability research methods narrative theory and rehabilitation studies

Identity and Dialect Performance Reem

Bassiouny, 2017-10-24 Identity and Dialect Performance discusses the relationship between identity and dialects It starts from the assumption that the use of dialect is not just a product of social and demographic factors but can also be an intentional performance of identity Dialect performance is related to identity construction and in a highly globalised world the linguistic repertoire has increased rapidly thereby changing our conventional assumptions about dialects and their usage The key outstanding feature of this particular book is that it spans an extensive range of communities and dialects Italy Hong Kong Morocco Egypt Syria Japan Germany The Sudan The Netherlands Nigeria Spain US UK French Guiana Colombia and Libya

Reconceptualising Reflection in Reflective Practice Misrah Mohamed, Radzuwan Ab Rashid, 2023-05-10 This edited volume presents a model that embraces four components of reflective practice planning acting reflecting and evaluating The complexities of reflective practice are manifested through three aspects of reflection problem solving action orientatedness and critical reflection To provide practical guidance the audience is presented with various sets of experiences within the field of education which represent different foci and criticality of reflection The experiences are described through different lenses from individual to groups of educators The chapters provide a reconceptualisation of reflection which underpins an effective reflective practice Therefore readers are provided with information that demonstrates the different phases of reflection that make up an effective cycle of reflective practice It is through the chapters that readers will be able to distinguish the different foci and levels of reflection thus enabling them to engage in reflective practice more effectively

The Malaysian context that the book brings gives readers insights into a lesser known context and its people culture and educational system as a whole for comparison The book is written with the needs of student teachers and teacher educators in mind However the model reconceptualised is transferable to other disciplines too

Language, Identity and Contemporary Society Rajesh Kumar,Om Prakash,2018-11-30 This book explores the instrumentality of language in constructing identity in contemporary society The processes of globalization hyper mobility rapid urbanization and the increasing desire of local populations to be linked to the global community have created a pressing need to reconfigure identity in this new world order Following the digital revolution both traditional and new media are dissolving linguistic boundaries The centrality of language in organizing communities and groups cannot be overstated our social order is developed alongside our linguistic allegiance shared narratives collective memories and common social history Keeping in mind the fluidity of identity the book brings together fourteen chapters providing cultural and social perspectives The ideas reflected here draw on a range of disciplines such as psychology sociology anthropology cultural studies the politics of language and linguistic identity
