The Purity and Sanctuary of the Body in Second Temple Judaism Hannah K. Harrington, 2019-08-12 This study traces the emergence of the concept of the body as a sanctuary from its biblical roots to its expressions in late Second Temple Judaism. Harrington's hypothesis is that the destruction of the first Jerusalem temple was a catalyst for a new reality vis-à-vis the temple and the emergence of increased emphasis on the holiness of the people along with concomitant standards of purity in a certain stream of Judaism. The study brings into relief elements of this attitude from exilic texts e.g. Ezekiel to Ezra Nehemiah the Dead Sea Scrolls and other Second Temple Jewish texts including early Jesus and Pauline traditions. The goal is to provide a history of the concept of the body cum temple metaphor which comes to its fullest expression in the letters of Paul to the Corinthians. The concept of the body as a sanctuary as it comes to fruition in late second temple Judaism must be understood within the conceptual world of Jewish holiness of the time. The metaphor of the temple provides a frame of reference but only a close analysis of the concepts of holiness purity and impurity and the dynamics between them can provide depth and distinction. Of particular importance critical to proper understanding of the temple metaphor are the notions of the elect holy status of Israel and its possible desecration by wrongful sexual relations the loss of the temple and the ripple effect of creating at least temporary substitutes for processes of the cult the widespread concern in Second Temple Judaism for ritual purity in support of greater holiness and a desire among Jews for the residence and agency of the spirit of holiness. The New York Times Index, 1976
