

Agendas on Urbanism

MVRDV

Where is Urbanism?

Urbanism lost its position (if it already had one) to politicians, to ecologists, to traffic planners and to architects.

They all claim to be better knowing what society needs. They all say that urbanists are redundant.

And they are all right!

Politicians have better slogans. Traffic planners control the urban space. Ecologists have better grip in on the current agenda.

And architects can visualize better than urbanists.

The result being more and more they all are doing urbanism even if they have no clue about integration, participation, legislations, time, landscape, parking norms...

Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility UN-Habitat, 2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world's leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change

An Agenda for Sustainable Development Research Walter Leal Filho,Amanda Lange Salvia,Claudio Ruy Portela de Vasconcelos,2024-09-20 This book involves establishing a set of priorities and a roadmap that can guide scholarly and practical efforts towards sustainability goals It encourages collaboration across disciplines to address complex sustainability issues that span social economic and environmental domains It also supports the development of robust methodologies for conducting research including quantitative qualitative and mixed methods approaches But despite the importance of and the need for an agenda for sustainable development research many efforts are isolated and thematically disconnected Also it is difficult to find information on how sustainability research is being undertaken and on the wide range of methods being used Against this backdrop and in order to facilitate a broad discussion on the contribution of sustainable development research this book is being produced The book gathers inputs from universities and research organisations working on matters related to sustainable development research in a variety of contexts It also provides a platform for the dissemination of information on the latest initiatives paving the way for technology transfer and networking Furthermore the book intends to provide a fertile basis upon which universities research centres and practitioners may cooperate more closely in this key area Last but not least a further aim of the book is to present methodological approaches and experiences deriving from case studies and projects which aim to show how sustainability research may be implemented across a range of disciplines. Thanks to its scope and interdisciplinarity, this book makes an excellent reading to everyone interested in sustainability research.

Introducing Urban Design Clara Greed, Marion Roberts, 2014-10-14. Introducing Urban Design: Interventions and Responses is a new departure in the town planning series under the editorship of Clara Greed. The dynamic new subject and profession of urban design straddles the fields of town planning, architecture, landscape architecture and transport planning. This book recognises that a key feature of modern urban design practice is the ability to integrate a concern with the visual and aesthetic aspects of urban form with a strong social awareness of the need of user groups plus a sensitivity to wider environmental and sustainability issues. In this it continues the themes already introduced in earlier volumes such as the changing nature of the profession, social problems and the means of implementing policy. Written by a team of eminent urban designers, architects and planners under the joint editorship of Clara Greed and Marion Roberts, the book introduces the reader to the subject through a discussion of current issues, approaches and user responses. Introducing Urban Design: Interventions and Responses is an ideal resource for undergraduate courses in town planning, architecture, landscape architecture, estate management and housing studies. It is also suitable as an introductory text for first year diploma and masters programmes in urban design and suitable for RTPI, RICS, CIOH, CIOB, ASI, ISVA and RIBA courses and will be of interest to professional practitioners in the urban design field. Planning, 2007. Integrating Food into Urban Planning Yves Cabannes, Cecilia Marocchino, 2018-11-22. The integration of food into urban planning is a crucial and emerging topic. Urban planners alongside the local and regional authorities that have traditionally been less engaged in food-related issues are now asked to take a central and active part in understanding how food is produced, processed, packaged, transported, marketed, consumed, disposed of and recycled in our cities. While there is a growing body of literature on the topic, the issue of planning cities in such a way they will increase food security and nutrition not only for the affluent sections of society but primarily for the poor is much less discussed and much less informed by practices. This volume, a collaboration between the Bartlett Development Planning Unit at UCL and the Food Agricultural Organisation, aims to fill this gap by putting more than 20 city-based experiences in perspective, including studies from Toronto, New York City, Portland and Providence in North America, Milan in Europe and Cape Town in Africa, Belo Horizonte and Lima in South America and in Asia, Bangkok and Tokyo. By studying and comparing cities of different sizes from both the Global North and South in developed and developing regions, the contributors collectively argue for the importance and circulation of global knowledge rooted in local food planning practices, programmes and policies. Urban Design Ecologies Brian McGrath, 2013-01-14. Der Urban Design Ecologies Reader stellt Architekten und Stadtplanern wichtige Tools zum besseren Verständnis heutiger städtebaulicher Maßnahmen bereit. Essays führender Experten spannen den Bogen zwischen historischen Entwicklungen und innovativen Ansätzen zur Bewältigung der globalen Herausforderungen rasanter Urbanisierungsprozesse und des Klimawandels.
