

THROTTLE AND GOVERNOR ADJUSTMENT

1. With the engine not running hold the throttle shaft and lever on the carburetor in the full open position against high idle stop.
2. Loosen the governor arm nut and adjust the throttle link so the governor arm is vertical when the throttle is full open.
3. Turn the governor shaft counter clockwise as far as possible with a pair of pliers and with the governor arm in the vertical position, tighten the governor arm nut.
4. Tighten generator belt to 1/4" (0.3 mm) deflection (finger tight) between the pulleys. Start the engine and check the high idle speed. The vibration tachometer or a fused tachometer at the end of the starter generator pulley. The RPM at the starter - generator is 2.6 times faster than engine speed. The engine high idle speed should be 3500 RPM; therefore the RPM at the starter - generator will be 2.6 x 3500 or approximately 9,100 RPM at the starter - generator pulley.

5. To adjust the high speed stop on the side of the engine, loosen the hex head screw and move the stop up or down. With the high speed stop properly set to 3500 RPM, tighten the screw.

SENSITIVITY ADJUSTMENT: Governor sensitivity can be adjusted by repositioning the governor spring in the holes on the governor arm and speed control brackets. If set too sensitive, speed sagging will occur with change of load. If a big drop in speed occurs when normal load is applied, the governor should be set for greater sensitivity.

Normally, the governor spring is placed in the third hole from bottom on the governor arm bracket and in the second hole from top on speed control bracket. To make governor control more sensitive, increase tension on spring by moving spring into holes spaced further apart. Conversely, decreasing spring tension allows broader governor control but less sensitivity.
