play in supporting families Should the state support national health care and if so why and in what form What does society owe to the elderly What role should welfare states play in supporting disabled people What obligations does the state have toward the poor As distinct from many works of political philosophy Justice Care and the Welfare State draws on empirical data about the populations and circumstances of existing Western societies and offers concrete policy advice for reforming welfare policies Noting that many of the challenges confronting people in post industrial societies involve issues of care Engster draws on a public ethics of care to develop his theory of welfare state justice outlining specific policy proposals in the areas of the family education health care old age pensions and long term care disability and poverty and unemployment The book offers important insights into how Western welfare states can be reformed in light of recent economic and social changes in order better to promote justice It should be of interest to political philosophers welfare state scholars public policy analysts and others interested in thinking about contemporary policy reform and justice

The Future of the Social Investment State Marius R. Busemeyer, Caroline de la Porte, Julian L.

Garritzmann, Emmanuele Pavolini, 2020-04-02 Social investment is part of a strategy to modernize the European welfare states by focusing on human resource development throughout the life course while ensuring financial sustainability. The last decades have seen cost containment in areas such as pensions and health care but also expansion in areas such as early childhood education, higher education and active labor market policies. This development is linked to a Social Investment SI approach which should ideally promote a better reconciliation of work and family life, high levels of labor market productivity and strong economic growth while also mitigating social inequality. However, institutionalization of policies that may mainly benefit the middle class has some unintended effects such as perpetuating new inequalities and the creation of other Matthew effects. While research on the rise of the social investment state as a new paradigm of social policy making for European welfare states has grown significantly, there are still important gaps in the literature. The chapters in this book address the controversies around social investment related to inequalities, individual preferences and the politics of social investment. This volume is therefore organized around policies, politics and outcomes. The contributing authors bring together expert knowledge and different perspectives on SI from several disciplines with original path breaking empirical contributions addressing some key questions that thus far are unanswered related to Matthew effects, inequalities, ambiguities of social investment and institutional complementarities. Furthermore, it is the first volume that covers the core policy areas of social investment: childcare, education and labour market policies. The chapters in this book were originally published in a special issue of the Journal of European Public Policy.

For Love or Money Nancy Folbre, 2012-09-06 As women moved into the formal labor force in large numbers over the last forty years, care work traditionally provided primarily by women has increasingly shifted from the family arena to the market. Child care, elder care, care for the disabled and home care now account for a growing segment of low wage work in the United States and demand for such work will only increase as the baby boom generation ages. But the expanding market provision of care has created new economic anxieties and raised pointed questions: Why do women continue to do most care work, both paid and unpaid? Why does care work remain low paid when the quality of care is so highly valued? How effective and equitable are public policies toward dependents in the United States? In For Love and Money, an interdisciplinary team of experts explores the theoretical dilemmas of care provision and provides an unprecedented empirical overview of the looming problems for the care sector in the United States. Drawing on diverse disciplines and areas of expertise, For Love and Money develops an innovative framework to analyze existing care policies and suggest potential directions for care policy and future research.

Contributors Paula England, Nancy Folbre and Carrie Leana explore the range of motivations for caregiving such as familial responsibility or limited job prospects and why both love and money can be efficient motivators. They also examine why women tend to specialize in the provision of care, citing factors like job discrimination, social pressure or the personal motivation to provide care reported by many women Suzanne Bianchi Nancy Folbre and Douglas Wolf estimate how much unpaid care is being provided in the United States and show that low income families rely more on unpaid family members for their child and for elder care than do affluent families With low wages and little savings these families often find it difficult to provide care and earn enough money to stay afloat Candace Howes Carrie Leana and Kristin Smith investigate the dynamics within the paid care sector and find problematic wages and working conditions including high turnover inadequate training and a pay penalty for workers who enter care jobs These conditions have consequences poor job quality in child care and adult care also leads to poor care quality In their chapters Janet Gornick Candace Howes and Laura Braslow provide a systematic inventory of public policies that directly shape the provision of care for children or for adults who need personal assistance such as family leave child care tax credits and Medicaid funded long term care They conclude that income and variations in states policies are the greatest factors determining how well and for whom the current system works Despite the demand for care work very little public policy attention has been devoted to it Only three states for example have enacted paid family leave programs Paid or unpaid care costs those who provide it At the heart of For Love and Money is the understanding that the quality of care work in the United States matters not only for those who receive care but also for society at large which benefits from the nurturance and maintenance of human capabilities As care work gravitates from the family to the formal economy this volume clarifies the pressing need for America to fundamentally rethink its care policies and increase public investment in this increasingly crucial sector

Welfare and the Welfare State Bent Greve, 2019-12-11 The welfare state is still very much central in people's everyday lives The welfare state is at the same time contested and debated and has often been argued to be in a crisis not only in the wake of the financial crisis Welfare and welfare states used to be a national issue and prerogative Today welfare and welfare states are influenced by national as well as regional and global decisions However nation states play a decisive role influenced by national preferences and ideas and in recent years populism and welfare chauvinism This book provides an overview of the central concepts through the lenses of the state market and civil society It also provides the reader with knowledge on distribution in societies and how this interacts and influences different groups and their position in society There are also chapters dealing specifically with central sectors in the welfare states such as health long term care and education The book uses a comparative approach as this better enables one to understand one's own country's welfare as well as helping to underline and see the linkages to the impact of global and regional issues on welfare states and their development Finally the book presents challenges and future perspectives for welfare states and their development The book's focus on core concepts and the variety of international welfare state regimes and mechanisms for delivering social policy provides a much needed introduction to the rapidly changing concept of welfare for students on social policy social studies sociology and politics courses

The Future of Motherhood in Western Societies Gijs Beets, Joop Schippers, Egbert R. te Velde, 2010-12-06 Most people value to have children still highly But what is the optimal moment to have the first The decision on having children or not and if yes on the timing of the first is one of the most difficult ones to make also because it more or less coincides with various other heavy decisions on shaping the life course like on union formation labour market career housing accommodation etc People realise that having children will fundamentally change their life and in order to fit this unknown and irreversible adventure perfectly into their life course postponement of the first birth is an easy way out as long as doubts continue and partners try to make up their mind Modern methods of birth control are of course a very effective help in that period What is the best moment to have the first child And to what moment is postponement justified There are no easy answers to these questions Best solutions vary per person as they depend on personal circumstances and considerations the partner may have conflicting ideas housing accommodation job income free time activities Existing parental leave and child care arrangements are weighted as well Unfortunately the biological clock ticks further And also unfortunately assisted reproductive technology IVF etc is unable to guarantee a successful outcome

Several couples end up without children involuntarily and that may lead to sorrow and grief This interdisciplinary book overviews the process of postponement and its backgrounds in modern Western societies holistically both at the personal and the societal level Contributions come from reproductive evolutionary biological and neurological sciences as well as from demography economy sociology and psychology It holds not only at women but also at men becoming first time fathers The discussion boils down to a new policy approach for motherhood and emancipation on how to shape work and family life It is argued that a public window where one can compose a cafeteria like set of supportive arrangements according to personal preferences could lead to a break in the rising age at first motherhood
