Unnatural Disasters Gonzalo Lizarralde, 2021-08-10 Storms floods fires tsunamis earthquakes tornadoes and other disasters seem not only more frequent but also closer to home As the world faces this onslaught we have placed our faith in sustainable development which promises that we can survive and even thrive in the face of climate change and other risks Yet while claiming to go green we have instead created new risks continued to degrade nature and failed to halt global warming Unnatural Disasters offers a new perspective on our most pressing environmental and social challenges revealing the gaps between abstract concepts like sustainability resilience and innovation and the real world experiences of people living at risk Gonzalo Lizarralde explains how the causes of disasters are not natural but all too human inequality segregation marginalization colonialism neoliberalism racism and unrestrained capitalism He tells the stories of Latin American migrants Haitian earthquake survivors Canadian climate activists African slum dwellers and other people resisting social and environmental injustices around the world Lizarralde shows that most reconstruction and risk reduction efforts exacerbate social inequalities Some responses do produce meaningful changes but they are rarely the ones powerful leaders have in mind This book reveals how disasters have become both the causes and consequences of today's most urgent challenges and proposes achievable solutions to save a planet at risk emphasizing the power citizens hold to change the current state of affairs

The Economics of Natural and Unnatural Disasters William S. Kern, 2010 Only recently have economists understood natural and unnatural disasters as economic phenomena to be formally analyzed Given the magnitude of many recent disasters their impact on local regional and national economies and the coverage of their consequences in the popular press it is puzzling that the attention of economists was for so long largely diverted from analysis of these events This book presents a noted group of contributors who stand at the forefront of this increasingly important subdiscipline of economics the economics of disasters The chapters they contribute cover a wide variety of events and delve into the human and economic impacts disasters impose on nations around the world Several themes dominant in this literature are discussed These include the ability of potential disaster victims to accurately assess the risks they face the role of incentives in ensuring that mitigation efforts are undertaken the adequacy of our evaluation of the impact of disasters on economies and discussion of the effectiveness of current government policies toward disaster prevention and relief These will in all likelihood continue to be topics of discussion in the future as well
