From Celluloid To Cyberspace The Media Arts And The Changing Arts World:

From Celluloid to Cyberspace Kevin F. McCarthy, Elizabeth Heneghan Ondaatje, 2002-11-13 Current knowledge of the operation of the arts world and its underlying dynamics is limited especially with regard to the media arts art that is produced using or combining film video and computers The authors examine the organizational features of the media arts placing them in the context of the broader arts environment and identifying the major challenges they face They take a structural point of view discussing audiences media artists as a group arts organizations and funding for the media arts

From Celluloid to Cyberspace Kevin F. McCarthy, Elizabeth Heneghan Ondaatje, Rand Corporation, 2003 Media Literacy Education in Action Belinha S. De Abreu, Paul Mihailidis, 2013-12-17 Media Literacy Education in Action brings together the field's leading scholars and advocates to present a snapshot of the theoretical and conceptual development of media literacy education what has influenced it current trends and ideas about its future Featuring a mix of perspectives it explores the divergent ways in which media literacy is connected to educational communities and academic areas in both local and global contexts The volume is structured around seven themes Media Literacy Past and Present Digital Media and Learning Global Perspectives Public Spaces Civic Activism Policy and Digital Citizenship Future Connections Compelling well organized and authoritative this one stop resource for understanding more about media literacy education across disciplines cultures and divides offers the fresh outlook that is needed at this point in time Globally as more and more states and countries call for media literacy education more explicitly in their curriculum guidelines educators are being required to teach media literacy in both elementary and secondary education contexts A Portrait of the Visual Arts Kevin F. McCarthy, Elizabeth Heneghan Ondaatje, Arthur Brooks, Andras Szanto, 2005-08-12 The third in a series that examines the state of the arts in America this analysis shows in addition to lines around the block for special exhibits well paid superstar artists flourishing university visual arts programs and a global expansion of collectors developments in the visual arts also tell a story of rapid even seismic change systemic imbalances and dislocation Beyond Productivity National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Computer Science and Telecommunications Board, Committee on Information Technology and Creativity, 2003-05-02 Computer science has drawn from and contributed to many disciplines and practices since it emerged as a field in the middle of the 20th century Those interactions in turn have contributed to the evolution of information technology new forms of computing and communications and new applications that continue to develop from the creative interactions between computer science and other fields Beyond Productivity argues that at the beginning of the 21st century information technology IT is forming a powerful alliance with creative practices in the arts and design to establish the exciting new domain of information technology and creative practices ITCP There are major benefits to be gained from encouraging supporting and strategically investing in this domain State Arts Policy Julia Lowell, 2008 State arts agencies key players within the U S system of public support for the arts face growing economic political and demographic challenges to the roles and missions they adopted when founded in the mid 1960s This report the fourth and final in a multiyear study looks at state arts agencies efforts to rethink their roles and missions reflecting on what the changes may mean for the direction of state arts policy Drawing on readings discussions and analyses conducted for the study the author concludes that if current trends and strategies continue future state arts policy is likely to focus more on developing the creative economy improving arts education and encouraging a broader spectrum of state residents to participate in the arts To achieve these goals state arts agencies will likely become more involved in policy advocacy coalition building convening and gathering and disseminating information than in grantmaking The transition to this future poses some risks for the agencies and for the arts community but it also offers the opportunity to more effectively promote the conditions in which the arts can thrive

Cultivating Demand for the Arts Laura Zakaras, Julia F. Lowell, 2008-09-11 What does it mean to cultivate demand for the arts Why is it important and necessary to do so What can state arts agencies and other arts and education policymakers do to make it happen The authors set out a framework for thinking about supply and demand in the arts and identify the roles that different factors particularly arts learning play in increasing demand for the arts

Revitalizing Arts Education Through Community-wide Coordination Susan J. Bodilly, Catherine H. Augustine, Laura Zakaras, 2008 To succeed in the long run coordinated efforts such as these must have committed and sustained leadership supportive policy and sufficient resources
