

1923: Tropical Watch Pocket Carbine
Maker: Houghton-Butcher Manufacturing Company, UK

In design this camera was similar to many other traditional drop-bed folders, with a Butcher 4 inch f/4.5 lens in a dial-set Compur shutter speeded 1 – 1/250 second. Where it differed from others was in the body, devoid of leather and made of burnished brass, with brown Russian leather bellows. A knob to one side of the lens panel twisted to give a small amount of rise and fall movements and a clip on the bed held a short cable release. It took eight pictures, 6x9cm, on 120 rollfilm.

Tropical Watch Pocket Carbine.

1925: Pearllette
Maker: Konishiroku, Japan

Thirteen years after the launch of the Vest Pocket Kodak, Konishiroku produced a camera whose design was strongly influenced by the earlier camera and which bore a strong resemblance to the German Picolette. The Pearllette was the first Japanese camera to use 127 size rollfilm, on which it took eight exposures, 3x4cm. It had two tripod bushes, one in the side of the body and the other, unusually, on a strip of metal between the struts. It was equipped with a Rokuoh-sha Optor 75mm f/6.3 lens and an Echo-shutter speeded 1/25 – 1/100 second.

*Rarity: ****

Pearllette, the first Japanese 127 film camera.

From Daguerre to Digital John Wade, 2012 Over 500 crisp color photos display the wide range of cameras produced from the earliest days of photography to the rise of the digital age The informative text provides a history of cameras organized into chapters by various camera types including snapshot folding rangefinder single lens reflex twin lens reflex stereo panoramic miniature and spy cameras Cameras within each chapter are arranged chronologically to show the development of the camera type Every camera presented has earned its place by meeting one or more of these criteria it is a major landmark epitomizes a certain era is rare or a prototype contains something different or unusual in the design and or is especially weird or strange Rounding out this engrossing guide are a glossary of technical terms and an index This book will be enjoyed by camera collectors photo historians and all who have ever captured life on film or in pixels Cameras at War John Wade, 2020-07-30 Books about war and the pictures that came out of conflict usually concentrate on the picture content But behind every picture there is a camera and that's what this book is about Profusely illustrated throughout with pictures of the cameras rather than the pictures they took it looks at 100 years of conflict from the Crimean War to the Korean War It begins in the days when a photographer needed to be more of a scientist than an artist such were the difficulties of shooting and processing any photograph It ends with the cameras whose compact dimensions versatility and ease of use meant that photographers could largely forget the science and concentrate on the art Some cameras simply recorded events Others defined and changed the way those events proceeded These were the cameras that went to war and this is their story
