The Mosaic-Cycle Concept of Ecosystems Hermann Remmert, 2012-12-06 The first international congress for ecology took place in 1974 in The Hague its central theme being Unifying Concepts in Ecology In the forefront of discussion at that time were questions of constancy stability and resilience Such questions have gone slightly out of fashion and the exceptionally precise and well thought out concepts of that era are seldom applied nowadays The present book introduces another unifying concept the concept of the ecological cycle or more precisely the mosaic cycle concept of ecology The following chapters have their origin in lectures which were held and discussed at a symposium of the Werner Reimers Stiftung in Bad Homburg The purpose of the symposium was the preparation of this book Our warmest thanks go to the Reimers Stiftung for their assistance and hospitality We should also like to express our gratitude to all participants to those who contributed to the discussion and above all to those colleagues whose lectures provided from a variety of aspects a critical approach to the mosaic cycle concept Marburg Winter 1990 91 HERMANN REMMERT Contents H REMMERT The Mosaic Cycle Concept of Ecosystems An Overview

Harold A. Mooney, James A. Drake, 2012-12-06 The diversity of the earth's climates superimposed upon a complex configuration of physical features has provided the conditions for the evolution of a remarkable array of living things which are linked together into complex ecosystems The kinds of organisms comprising the ecosystems of the world and the nature of their interactions have constantly changed through time due to coevolutionary interactions along with the effects of a continually changing physical environment In recent evolutionary time there has been a dramatic and ever accelerating rate of change in the configuration of these ecosystems because of the increasing influence of human beings These changes range from subtle modifications caused by anthropogenically induced alterations in atmospheric properties to the total destruction of ecosystems Many of these modifications have provided the fuel food and fiber which have allowed the expansion of human populations Unfortunately there have been many unanticipated changes which accompanied these modifications which have had effects detrimental to human welfare including substantial changes in water and air quality For example the use of high sulfur coal to produce energy in parts of North America is altering the properties of freshwater lakes and forests because of acidification

Goldammer, 2012-12-06 In 1977 the Volkswagen Foundation sponsored the first of a series of International Symposia on Fire Ecology at Freiburg University Federal Republic of Germany The scope of the congresses was to create a platform for researchers at a time when the science of fire ecology was not yet recognized and established outside of North America and Australia Whereas comprehensive information on the fire ecology of the northern boreal the temperate and the mediterranean biotas is meanwhile available it was recognized that considerable gaps in information exist on the role of fire in tropical and subtropical ecosystems Thus it seemed timely to meet the growing scientific interest and public demand for reliable and updated information and to synthesize the available knowledge of tropical fire ecology and the impact of tropical biomass burning on global ecosystem processes The Third Symposium on Fire Ecology again sponsored by the Volkswagen Foundation and held at Freiburg University in May 1989 was convened to prepare this first pantropical and multidisciplinary monograph on fire ecology The book in which 46 scientists cooperated analyzes those fire related ecosystem processes which have not yet been described in a synoptic way Following the editor's concept duplication at previous efforts in describing tropical vegetation patterns and dynamics was avoided Extensive bibliographical sources are given in the reference lists of the chapters
