Meenakshi Rajeev, B. P. Vani, 2017-03-22 This book focuses on the issue of financial exclusion with particular reference to the urban informal sector in India Continuing the work of its predecessor the current Government of India is also placing considerable importance on driving policy initiatives for financial inclusion However financial exclusion in urban areas especially of the lower strata of the society has not received the attention it deserves from researchers and policymakers even though urban poverty and deprivations are of considerable importance in the present Indian context The challenges of financial inclusion and accessibility in the urban areas differ substantially from those found in the rural regions given the fact that the possibility of physical access to financial services is much higher in urban areas In order to provide a macro perspective the book begins with an analysis of the unit record data on nature and extent of financial inclusion and access to credit in urban India based on Debt and Investment survey data 59th and 70th rounds provided by the National Sample Survey Office NSSO In subsequent steps the book discusses findings from a primary survey carried out in the state of Karnataka of self employed persons engaged in informal services sector This exercise has helped to comprehend the ways in which they currently meet their financial needs for different income generating purposes the terms and conditions under which they do so and the challenges that remained for possible interventions Experiences of other developing nations in their attempts to ensure financial inclusion and the lesson learnt thereby are the other highlights of the book

The walk without

limbs: Searching for indigenous health knowledge in a rural context in South Africa Gubela Mji, Melanie

Alperstein, Nondwe Bongokazi Mlenzana, Karen Galloway, Chioma Ohajunwa, Lieketseng Ned, Ntombekhaya

Tshabalala, 2019-12-12 In a country as diverse as South Africa sickness and health often mean different things to different people so much so that the different health definitions and health belief models in the country seem to have a profound influence on the health seeking behaviour of the people who are part of our vibrant multicultural society This book is concerned with the integration of indigenous health knowledge IHK into the current Western orientated Primary Health Care PHC model The first section of the book highlights the challenges facing the training of health professionals using a curriculum that is not drawing its knowledge base from the indigenous context and the people of that context Such professionals will later recognise that they are walking without limbs in matters pertaining to health The area that was chosen for conducting the research was KwaBomvana in Xhosa Elliotdale Eastern Cape province South Africa The people who reside there are called AmaBomvana The area where the Bomvana peoples reside is served by Madwaleni Hospital and eight surrounding clinics Qualitative ethnographic feminist methods of data collection supported the research done for Section 1 of the book Section 2 comprises the translation and implementation of PhD study outcomes and had contributions from various researchers In the critical research findings of the PhD study older Xhosa women identify the inclusion of social determinants of health as vital to the health problems they managed within their homes For them each disease is linked to a social determinant of health and the management of health problems includes the management of social determinants of health For them it is about the health of the home and not just about the management of disease They believe that healthy homes make healthy villages and that the prevention of the development of disease is related to the strengthening of the home Health and illness should be seen within both physical and spiritual contexts without health there can be no progress in the home When defining health the older Xhosa women add three critical components to the WHO health definition namely food security healthy children and families and peace and security in their villages Prof Mji further proposes that these three elements should be included in the next revision of the WHO health definition because they are not only important for the Bomvana people where the research was conducted but also for the rest of humanity In light of the promise of National Health Insurance and the revitalisation of PHC this book proposes that these two major national health policies should take cognisance of the IHK utilised by the older Xhosa women In addition to what this research implies these policies should also take note of all IHK from the indigenous peoples of South Africa Africa and the rest of the world and that there should be a clear plan as to how the knowledge can be supported within a health care systems approach Imagining India in

Discourse Mohan Jyoti Dutta, 2017-01-02 The economic liberalization of India changes in global structures and the rapid emergence of India on the global landscape have been accompanied by the dramatic rise in popular public and elite discourses that offer the promise to imagine India Written mostly in the future tense these discourses conceive of India through specific frames of global change and simultaneously offer prescriptive suggestions for the pathways to fulfilling the vision Both as summary accounts of the shifts taking place in India and in the relationships of India with other global actors as well as roadmaps for the immediate and longer term directions for India these discourses offer meaningful entry points into elite imaginations of India Engaging these imaginations creates a framework for understanding the tropes that are mobilized in support of specific policy formulations in economic political cultural and social spheres Connecting meanings

Pro-poor Development Policies Hal Hill, Majah-Leah V Ravago, James A. Roumasset, 2022-10-03 This collection of essays provides a wealth of information and analysis about the Philippine economy and the role of agriculture and economic policy in it. The Philippine experience has been quite different from the highly successful Asian economies with a long period of low growth until the turn of the century and only then greater success. The authors cover not only the Philippine experience but also place it in its Asian context and that of developing countries more generally. They report on the lessons learned both positive and negative from the various economic policies that have been adopted with regard to both agriculture and to economic inequality. Those interested in Philippine economic development and Asian development more broadly will find this an important reference work. As a result, microfinance activities have increased and diversified. Formal financial services were made available to impoverished clients at affordable costs. However, there is still the risk of making poverty-stricken clients worse off because of unexpected events prompting ADB to create interventions that focus on microinsurance development.
